BALL STAR BEATEN TO DEATH IN BATTLE ABOARD AIRPLANE

Widow of Attorney Leonard Evans Kills Self In Anaheim

COUPLE'S SON AND FRIEND FIND BODY

Wife Of Late Barrister Takes Gas; Was Sad After Husband Died

BOY, 10, LEFT BEHIND

Law Practice Sold To District Attorney Last Saturday

Death, which a short time ago came to Leonard Evans, Anaheim attorney, reached into his home again today and took his widow, Mrs. Slizabeth Evans, 42, leaving their 10-year-old son, Leonard, jr., to survive his parents. The coroner's office said Mrs. Evans had taken her own life by inhaling gas. There will be no inquest into her death.

The first hint of the new tragedy in his life came to Leonard, jr., when he awoke this morning at his home, 518 Lemon street, Anaheim. He smelled gas. Running from the house, he went to the residence of Horace Benjamin nearby.

Neighbor Finds Body

Upon entering the Evans home, Mr. Benjamin found Mrs. Evans in the dining room. A physician was called, but all attempts to revive her failed. It was believed that she had taken gas during the night and had been dead for several hours.

Friends said that since the death of her husband, Mrs. Evans had been very despondent.

Sold Husband's Business

She had been a resident of Anaheim for many years and was prominent in social circles there. The body was taken to the Backs, Terry and Campbell mortuary at Anaheim.

Last Saturday Mrs. Evans sold her husband's law business to S. B. Kaufman, who on that day announced his intention to resign as district attorney, effective Oct. 1. A telegram informing him of Mrs. Evans' death was sent today to Mr. Kaufman at San Francisco, where he is attending a convention of the California Bar association.

Mr. Evans died Aug. 22 at his home.

Autumn Fashion Event Here Thursday Brings Out Latest Modes

Autumn will blossom in Santa Ana Thursday when merchants of the city sponsor a fall fashion show and hospitality night from 7 to 9:30 o'clock.

Musical entertainment on the streets has been arranged by the retail merchants division of the Chamber of Commerce under Walter Swanberger, chairman of promotion and publicity. Lights will blazon in windows and stores, and complete sales forces will be on hand to receive patrons.

Courtesy of the merchants will be extended to the public not only in display of merchandise, but in presentation of souvenirs, style shows, entertainment, and other attractions.

Tomorrow night at 7:15 o'clock over radio station KREG, three representatives of merchants will speak on the fall styles. HOOVER SAYS RIGHTS ARE IN DANGER

Government's Moves Are 'Sapping' Privileges, Charges Republican

BACKS CONSTITUTION

Principles Of Liberty Embodied in Document, Declares Leader

SAN DIEGO, Sept. 17. (AP)—A charge that some moves in the federal government "are of the same sort of first sappings of human rights that have taken place in other lands" was made here today by former President Herbert Hoover in a Constitution day address.

"Liberty never dies from direct attack," Mr. Hoover declared as the conclusion of 20 years' experience in serving his country at home and abroad dealing "with the backwash of war and revolution."

Tells How Liberty Dies

"No one will dare rise tomorrow and say he is opposed to the bill of rights," he said. "Liberty dies from the encroachment and disregard of its safeguards. Its destruction can be no less potent from ignorance or desire to find shortcuts to jump over some immediate pressure.

"In our country, abdication of its responsibilities and powers by congress to the executive, the repudiation by the government of its obligations, the centralization of authority into the federal government at the expense of local government, the building up of huge bureaucracies, the coercion or intimidation of citizens, are the same sort of first sappings of safeguards of human rights that have taken place in other lands. Here is the cause of anxiety and concern to the thinking citizens of the United States. x x x"

Campaign For Issue Is Begun Here; Data Is Available to All

The campaign for the Orange county flood control and water conservation bond issue of $6,620,000 started today. It began with the opening of headquarters at 512 North Main street.

From now until election day, Oct. 4, this office will be the nerve center of the campaign. It will distribute authentic information on the water program. It will arrange for speakers to go throughout the county to inform people of the need for water conservation and the method by which it can be accomplished.

The headquarters will keep on file maps, charts, construction plans and detailed engineering reports. Official pamphlets, with maps, showing the work to be done if the bonds are approved and the government makes a $6,374,000 grant, will be given to all who come to the office.

Golden in Charge

Larry Golden, who was a candidate for county surveyor at the last election, will be in charge of the office. Opening of the office was authorized by the board of supervisors in conformity with section 6 of the county flood control act, it was announced at the headquarters. The supervisors, while not taking an active part in the campaign, have said they believe it to be their duty to inform the public completely about the program.

HAILE SHUNS PROTECTION IN CRISIS

Ethiopian Emperor Will Rejects Protectorate If Offered By League

SANCTIONS PROMISED

'Our Independence Must Be Preserved,' Says Selassie Today

By JAMES A. MILLS

ADDIS ABABA, Sept. 17 (AP)—Emperor Haile Selassie told the Associated Press today that if the League of Nations recommends a tri-partite protectorate of Ethiopia he will reject the suggestion outright.

"As a member of the League of Nations," said the emperor, "Ethiopia will never permit another member or other members to dominate her, whether in the form of a protectorate, a mandate, or any other guise.

"Our absolute sovereignty and independence must be preserved inviolate. That is final."

The emperor decided today to postpone general mobilization of Ethiopia troops until the League of Nations has exhausted all its efforts for peace. The Ethiopian delegation at Geneva strongly supported the decision.

The delegates informed the emperor that if Mussolini refuses to accept any of the proposed solutions of the Italo-Ethiopian conflict, the league powers will apply sanctions, with France participating.

VIOLENT GALE KILLS SEVEN

Ship's Captain Is Lost Overboard Off Isle of Wight in Storm

LONDON, Sept. 17. (AP)—Seven persons were known to be dead today as the result of the most violent gale of recent years.

The gale, which swept the English coast, moderated toward nightfall, but heavy seas still surged at channel ports.

The dead included a ship's captain, a woman crushed by a chimney, and three cyclists swept along by the wind.

Captain Overboard

The British steamer Brompton Manor, disabled in a fierce gale off the Isle of Wight, was located by the British destroyer Sardonyx. Her captain, H. Hunter, was lost overboard.

The vessel had been feared lost in a storm which whipped the English coast and extended far to sea, leaving a wide trail of destruction behind by winds estimated in some places at 100 miles an hour.

More in Distress

Rescue ships were also reported standing by the British freighter Mary Kingsley off the Irish coast. The Marseille radio picked up distress signals from an unidentified steamer, at first apparently identified as the British steamer Crackshot.

Veterans in the vicinity of Owers lightship on the Isle of Wight, where the Brompton Manor was last reported, said the storm was the worst in their memory. It ripped down small buildings.

WILD FRACAS ENDS WITH KILLING

TERRIFIC FIGHT TOLD

Brooklyn Player, Sent Home, Starts Row in Chartered Plane

TORONTO, Sept. 17. (AP)—A melodramatic fight in an airplane high over the Long Branch race track in the dark early today resulted in the death of Len Koenecke, 31, outfielder of the Brooklyn National league baseball team.

William Joseph Mulqueeney, who was piloting the plane, and Irwin Davis, his assistant, who said they killed Koenecke in self-preservation, were charged with manslaughter.

Davis and Koenecke were locked in a desperate battle, the fliers stated. Then, with the plane rocking out of control, as the pilot fought to keep one hand on the controls, Mulqueeney struck Koenecke several blows on the head with a fire extinguisher.

Had Chartered Plane

Koenecke, sent home from St. Louis by the Dodgers, had chartered the plane at Detroit for a trip to Buffalo.

Mulqueeney gave this graphic story to the police:

"Accompanied by a friend, Irwin Davis, we left the Detroit airport about 10 p. m. for Buffalo. During the middle of the trip Koenecke became restless and started grabbing at the controls.

Grabbed My Neck

"As he was seated in the front seat, I advised him to get into the back seat and he did. Davis came to the front seat. Everything went O. K. for a short time. Then he grabbed me by the neck, which interfered with my flying. I asked Davis to get into the rear seat and try to quiet him. After about 10 minutes he started fighting with Davis and there was quiet a commotion.

"Then," said Mulqueeney, telling his story to Constable Whethered of the police of New Toronto, suburb of Toronto, "I had to come to a decision. It was either a case of the three of us crashing or doing something to Koenecke.

"I watched my chance, grabbed the fire extinguisher and walloped him over the head.

"Under Great Stress"

"With the passengers quiet, I took a look around, saw the open field with possibilities of fair landing and came down."

The airmen told Constable Wethered that Koenecke, sent home from St. Louis by the Dodgers yesterday to make way for fresh talent, appeared under great stress when they started their flight.

Mulqueeney and Davis were arraigned on the manslaughter charge in suburban Minico police court. They were not asked to plead and were remanded until Friday, pending outcome of the adjourned inquest which will be held Thursday night.

Had Been Drinking

Mulqueeney told police Koenecke had been drinking and was quiet for the first few minutes of the trip. The ball player sat up front with the pilot.

Then, said Mulqueeney, Koenecke for no particular reason began to nudge him with his shoulder.

"I told him to cut it out, that I had no time to play," the pilot said. "But when he kept up the horseplay I told him to get into the back seat with Davis."

Koenecke sat quietly for a moment or so and then began to poke Mulqueeney in the shoulder again, the pilot said.

Davis, sitting beside Koenecke, then took a hand. He tried to force the ball played to be quiet and then the real battle began, Mulqueeney related.

Bit Him on Shoulder

Koenecke bit Davis in the shoulder and the two went to their knees on the floor of the plane

Irrigation Was Vital Factor in County in the 60's

Right now most everybody in Orange county is thinking water. Way back into the early history of Orange county—or rather the territory then known only to the padres and the Mexicans—irrigation was practiced. Soon afterward the white man found he could use water from the Santa Ana. Then began the great drama which has extended to the present. The Journal, in a series of articles, will picture the early day struggles, the successes and failures, that marked man's effort to make the desert blossom.—Editor.

By ROCH BRADSHAW

Many years ago a horseman started to ford the Santa Ana river at the Bernardo Yorba rancho above what is now the town of Olive. The stream was a rushing river that apparently had spread beyond its ordinary course, for even on the road the water came up to the horse's belly and the rider feared that he and his mount would be swept away by the current.

Yet the pioneer fought his way across the river and gained higher ground on the other side. Probably he paused there to rest and look about him. For he later recalled an interesting circumstance. Although the river at that point was wide and deep, the rider could see that a mile and one-half below him there was no water in the river at all. The water had sunk through the sand and gravel into what is now called the underground basin.

The rider was A. B. Chapman, a pioneer in the Orange district, and his experience occurred in the sixties. Even at that time, Mr. Chapman testified later, water in the Santa Ana river seldom flowed below Burruel point near Olive, in the summer.

Mr. Chapman's story epitomizes the water situation which always has existed in Orange county. At times the local streams are veritable floods. Again, a short time later, they may be dry ribbons of sand. The story explains, too, why men have struggled for years to build a dam on the Santa Ana river. They wish to capture these floods and conserve the water for later use. They know that if the reserve supply is allowed to flow down the stream bed in a regulated amount, it will sink into the underground basin as Mr. Chapman saw it do, and replenish the underground reservoir from which irrigation and domestic water is pumped.

Even in the sixties irrigation had begun to be a vital factor in the life of Orange county. A number of ditches had been built to carry water from the river to orchards, fields and vineyards.

But irrigation really began in Orange county when the first Spanish padres came to found a new civilization at San Juan Capistrano mission. The mis-

MOONEY, BACK IN SAN FRANCISCO FOR HEARING, SOBS IN CELL

LONG BATTLE FOR LIBERTY IS RENEWED

'I'll Be All Right,' He Says; Court to Hear Case Tomorrow

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 17. (AP) For the third time in 19 years, prison gates clanged open today for Thomas J. Mooney as he renewed his long fight for freedom and vindication of charges that he was responsible for the bomb deaths of 10 persons in San Francisco's 1916 Preparedness day parade.

At 6:30 a. m. Mooney was met within the walls of San Quentin penitentiary by a delegation of San Francisco policemen, and began his trip across the bay to San Francisco, where lawyers will present his plea for release on a writ of habeas corpus.

He was taken aboard a San Francisco police boat, which left a landing near the prison and immediately started across the waters of the Golden Gate.

He was quickly removed to a city jail cell, on landing, and set his quarters in shape for his several-weeks sojourn.

After posing for newsreel photographers, he was thanked, his hand grasped in warm appreciation. Tears began to trickle and standing at the cell's opened door he said to the departing visitors:

"I'll be all right. It's the shock, coming back here—back to San Francisco where it all happened."

The hearing, being conducted for the state supreme court by Referee A. E. Shaw, will start tomorrow morning. It was originally set for today, but the postponement was made to enable the supreme court to hear arguments on a demand by Mooney's attorneys for clarification of its instructions to the referee.

MISS ROWLAND FETED AT POMONA FAIR; GOES TO SCHOOL

Barbara Rowland, who won the title of California's Outdoor Girl at the Salinas Rodeo in July, and her parents, Mayor Fred Rowland and Mrs. Rowland of Santa Ana, spent Saturday at the Los Angeles county fair, Pomona, seeing the sights and being generally feted.

NUDISTS RUN FROM FIRE

Upland Blaze Under Control

ONTARIO, Sept. 17. (AP)—With the blaze believed in control, 2000 firefighters early today fought to stamp out a brush fire that raged north of here last night, threatening destruction to many summer homes and a nudist colony in Stoddard canyon.

Forest rangers headquarters said they hoped to have the fire out during the day provided another wind disturbance doesn't materialize.

Nearly 50 members of the nudist group scampered for safer regions late yesterday when the fire swept near their camp, some pausing in their flight to don clothing, and others merely running.

CITRUS PACT 'ARMOR' BEING MADE IN WASHINGTON

Authorities at Washington were working today to make the California-Arizona citrus marketing agreement "bullet proof." A public meeting is scheduled for Los Angeles during the first week in October, at which the agreement's new "armor" will be inspected.

Although announcements from Washington say that only technical changes are to be made in the agreement, it is believed in some circles that the same time Secretary of Agriculture Wallace wishes to make it as nearly invulnerable as possible. The fate of the NRA in the supreme court is still a fresh memory.

Expected Changes Told

A missing rivet somewhere in the armor might offer a loophole for trouble to creep in.

Holmes Bishop, citrus grower and farm bureau director, suggested that the changes, though minor, might be contemplated to make the agreement proof against attack.

The chief change anticipated by Clarence Skiles, manager of the Orange County Fruit exchange at Orange, is a shift in words used in the agreement. It is now referred to, for instance, as an order. Under amendments to the Agricultural Adjustment act, the former shippers' licenses will be called orders. This change is being made as part of a plan to avoid the possible charge that congress has delegated legislative authority to the secretary of agriculture. It was this hook on which the NRA was caught.

Order Ready Next Week

The new order is expected to be ready next week, the Associated Press quoted Secretary Wallace as saying. No definite date or place for the Los Angeles hearing has been announced.

Mr. Skiles said today that, except for the technical changes, the present agreement will be carried over in full force. Amendments to the AAA provide 75 per cent of the growers or 80 per cent of the handlers must ask for a marketing agreement before it can be put into effect. This would apply only in case an entirely new agreement were to be drafted, Mr. Skiles said. The present agreement carried approval of 88 per cent of the volume of fruit produced in California and Arizona, Farm Advisor Harold Wahlberg recalled. The minimum requirement under the present agreement was 80 per cent of the handlers or growers.

MORE ABOUT FLOOD BONDS

Newport harbor chamber of commerce, will be in charge of organization work and the speakers' bureau. Wayne Goble, local newspaperman, will be in charge of publicity.

A statement from Murray N. Thompson, county flood control engineer, was made public today at the office, as follows:

Thompson's Statement

"The imperative need for protection from disastrous floods is generally recognized by the people of Orange county, and when this can be done, along with a saving of 40,000 acre feet of storm waters on the average per year which now goes into the ocean, and with nearly half the cost to be borne as a gift to us by the federal government in its public works and job building program, it would certainly appear that all voters should study the program with a view to giving it their approval at the election on Oct. 4.

"We want the people of Orange county to vote intelligently upon this issue, which will determine the flood and water fate of the county for many years to come, and we are doing everything possible which is permitted by law to place all information about the plan in their hands.

"The time is short, and we shall appreciate the help of every citizen is getting these important facts into the hands of their friends and neighbors before election day."

TO TELL FACTS ON BONDS HERE

The proposed $180,000 bond issue for completing the high school building program here will be the "opening gun" of the first membership meeting of the chamber of commerce Sept. 23. The entire meeting will be devoted to this issue, a letter to members of the chamber said today. The bulletin was mailed by the office of Howard I. Wood, secretary of the chamber.

The purpose of the noon gathering at the Green Cat cafe is to "bring out all the facts," the letter said. "So often, after a thing is over, a business man will say, 'If I had only known the facts, I would have taken a different attitude,'" the letter explained urging chamber members to make reservations for the affair. Members of the board of education will be present to explain the need for the building program.

On Sept. 30 a similar meeting will be held, at which the facts about the county water program will be presented. A $6,620,000 bond election has been called for Oct. 4 for the water project. The high school bond election will be on Sept. 26.

MORE ABOUT ETHIOPIA

(This statement confirmed an announcement by the Italian delegation at Geneva. The Italians, after conferring by telephone with Rome, announced reports that fighting had broken out between the Italians and the Ethiopians were untrue).

NEGOTIATIONS STILL POSSIBLE, SAYS ITALY

(Copyright, 1935, by Associated Press)

GENEVA, Sept. 17.—The Italian delegation to the League of Nations informed the Associated Press tonight that if the league council's report on the Italo-Ethiopian situation is reasonable, it will be made the basis for negotiations by Italy.

This was considered of the utmost importance in iew of Saturday's Italian communique which declared Italy would not accept a compromise.

An Italian spokesman said the words "no compromise" used in the Rome Communique did not eliminate the possibilities of negotiations.

MUSSOLINI RECALLS RETIRED WAR SHIPS

ROME, Sept. 17. (AP)—Premier Mussolini, as minister of the navy, has recalled from the reserves Italy's two largest battleships, the Duilio and the Doria, each displacing 22,930 tons and each with main armaments of 13 12-inch guns.

BRITAIN MOVES FLEET AS 'PRECAUTION'

(Copyright, 1935, by Associated Press)

LONDON, Sept. 17.—An authoritative British source tonight described the transfer of almost the entire British home fleet to Gibraltar and the Mediterranean as "precautionary."

This disclosure came shortly after the cabinet ministers who virtually make up the imperial defense council had met in answer to the summons of Prime Minister Stanley Baldwin. It was understood they considered general empire policies in view of the increasingly dangerous situation engendered by the Italo-Ethiopian crisis.

SANTA ANAN SAYS CROPS IN NATION GOOD, BUT LATE

Crops look good all over the country, but they are late.

This was the summary of conditions given today by C. M. McCain, 1336 Grand avenue, who has just returned from a trip to New York, Kentucky and Arkansas.

Farmers are making a living, said Mr. McCain. On the business side of the picture the local real estate man commented only to the extent of saying that there was very little building going on in the parts of the country he visited.

Mr. McCain went first to New York, then to Kentucky, his former home, and his return stopped in Arkansas.

MARRIAGE PERMITS UNDER NEW LAW

Intentions to wed were being filed today under the new amendment to the state's "gin marriage" law which requires but one party to the wedding appearing for the filing, according to County Clerk J. M. Backs. The other party can sign the application before a notary public. a resolution appreciating his services.

After thanking the board for the appointment Mr. Menton said: "I shall endeavor to maintain the same standard of efficiency in the office that has been maintained under the retiring district attorney."

The new appointee has been a resident of Santa Ana since 1907. For many years he worked on Santa Ana newspapers and at the same time read law. He opened a law office here immediately after being admitted to the bar July 15, 1915.

In 1917 he was appointed a deputy in the office of District Attorney L. A. West, serving in that capacity until 1920 when he re-entered private practice. In 1930 he again was appointed deputy district attorney under Sam L. Collins and was elevated in 1932 to the post of assistant district attorney when Mr. Collins resigned following his election to congress. When Mr. Collins resigned Mr. Kaufman was appointed to fill that vacancy and was elected to the office last November.

During the time he was engaged in private practice Mr. Menton was associated with the late Clyde Bishop.

Mr. Menton is married, has one child and makes his home at 2344 Riverside drive, this city. He is active in the Elks lodge and other civic and fraternal organizations.

as non-partisan and non-political.

"Our constitution is not alone the working plan of a great federation of states under representative government. There is embedded in it also the vital principles of the American system of liberty. That system is based upon certain inalienable freedoms and protections which not even the government may infringe and which we call the bill of rights.

"It does not require a lawyer to interpret those provisions. They are as clear as the Ten Commandments."

Bans "False Idea"

Men throughout the world, he declared, are in despair, "surrendering their freedom for false promises of economic security." He branded as false the idea that sacrifice of personal freedom can add to the economic efficiency, gain economic security, "find a single job" or "give a single assurance in old age."

The former President denied that respect for the safeguards contained in the first 10 amendments to the constitution can be regarded as a "fetter upon progress."

Establishment of a new training school for Boy Scouts, with Alvin Koenig, Placentia, to serve as dean, was approved at the dinner-meeting of Scoutmasters called by Harrison E. White, chief executive, at Camp Irvine last night.

Dates for the school have not been set, but the course will include training for Cubs, Sea Scouts, patrol leaders and specialization work, Mr. White said.

Highlights of the fall program, discussed last night, include a two-day trip to the San Diego Exposition for the Southern California Camporal Oct. 4-5; a court of honor at the Municipal bowl Oct. 25; participation in the Armistice day parade at Anaheim Nov. 11; a field meet at the Municipal bowl Nov. 23, and the scouts' annual winter camp, Dec. 26-31.

Scouts going to San Diego will camp in Birch park Oct. 4, before leaving the next morning for the exposition.

TRIO SEEKS $20,518 FOR CRASH INJURIES

Miss Jeanne E. Baxter, her father and guardian, Charles R. Baxter, and Roy Dargatz have started suit in superior court to recover damages totalling $20,518.04 from Oscar Wood.

Miss Baxter alleges she was painfully injured and sustained scars that will be permanent when the car in which she was riding with Mr. Dargatz was involved in a collision with a car driven by Mr. Woods. The crash was on Lincoln boulevard in Anaheim. Miss Baxter is suing for $15,000 for her injuries, her father demands $100 allegedly expended for medical care for her, and Mr. Dargatz is asking $5,418.04 for his injuries.

MORE ABOUT IRRIGATION

sion was founded Nov. 1, 1776, nearly 100 years before the experience of Mr. Chapman in crossing the Santa Ana river. The priests taught their Indian charges how to farm, and guided them in building the county's first irrigation system, evidences of which still remain.

Since that time irrigation has made the county flower into one of the garden spots of the world. But irrigation means water, and water is a topic which forms a dominant theme in the history of this section. Men have fought to protect their water from encroachment. They have sacrificed, and risked their lives to obtain water. The story of water is the most vital story in the county's history.

LLOYD RESIGNS CANTANDO JOB

Resignation of J. E. Lloyd as secretary-treasurer and librarian of Cantando club and appointment of D. S. Tock as his successor featured the first fall rehearsal of Cantando club last night in the Church of the Messiah parish hall.

George R. Stoner, club president, and the board of directors accepted with regret the resignation of Mr. Lloyd, who has been librarian since Cantando's organization seven years ago, and had his other offices for the past five years. He kept the club finances in the black ink during the past few financially trying years, and holds the unusual record of never having missed either a rehearsal or a concert since the club began.

Sixty members attended the rehearsal, which Leon Eckles directed. Several new songs were tried out.

QUAKE OPENS BAD CRACKS IN SCHOOL

Fear that the Baker street school building in Placentia was badly damaged by an earthquake early yesterday morning caused removal of two classrooms of pupils from the structure, and a complete evacuation is expected after a visit of the state inspector today, according to Superintendent A. P. Patten.

Yesterday's quake opened old cracks in the four-room structure and was also the cause of new cracks opening, it was reported.

School officials had decided to continue use of the building this year after voters turned down a bond issue for rehabilitation of schools of the district last month. The Baker street structure was to have been rebuilt at a cost of $24,000 if the issue were approved.

More than 100 students attend the school, which is located in the Mexican quarter of Placentia. Members of the board of education are to meet this morning to hear the inspector's report and possibly take action on removal of students and construction of temporary quarters.

OUTFIELDERS TAKE VACATION

WASHINGTON, Sept. 17. (AP)—For the first time in nearly a quarter century, a major league outfield played a full game yesterday without having a single putout or assist. FREE GUESSES FOR THOSE WHO LIKE TO GUESS

Would you like to know who is going to win the Star-Oiler classic tonight? So would we. We don't know but we asked some others who think they know with this result.

Paul Wright, who covers the games for this department: "The Stars—I'm afraid. Paul's "afraid" because if the Stars win that means the nightball season will overlap onto his beloved football coverage.

E. S., the society editor, who was in range when we popped the question to Paul: "Norwalk, of course! Who's going to play?"

Wagerin' Willie: "The Oilers will win. Joe Rodgers and his gang have had time to lift themselves out of their dump." Willie means "slump."

Jim Detrixhe: "I think the Stars are going to come through. And you can thank Al Reboin and Jimmy Coates if they do."

Dave Miekeljohn, sports editor of the Pomona Progress-Bulletin: "I don't know. But Colton will lick the daylights out of either of them."

Brick (Brick Dust) Gaines, the county editor—which is meant to reflect nothing at all on his ability to pick winners: "The Oilers—they oughta be a smother team!"

Vic Ruedy, pilot of Anaheim's nightball entry: "I hope Santa Ana. And I think they will because they'll outfight 'em."

Joe Rodgers, head Oiler: It'l' be tough." (We've got something saved up for you tomorrow if you do lose, Joe. So have a look our way if you can still take it.)

Carl Fisher, Journal printer, and one-half of the other backroom boys: "I'm bettin' on Santa Ana." The other half: "Stick with the Oilers."

Bill Cole, who piloted the Stars to a first-half championship: "You can't quote me because I won't say anything."

LOCAL NETTERS WIN MATCHES

Santa Ana's three standard-bearers in the Pacific Southwest tennis championships were still making headway in the Los Angeles tournament today.

Miss Marjorie Lauderbach ousted Mary Rosecrans, 6-1, 6-1, yesterday to gain the right to play Patsy Hiller at 4:30 p. m. today. Miss Josephine Cruickshank, who teamed with Van Ryn to defeat Fitzmaurice and Surber, 6-1, 6-2, in women's doubles yesterday, was to meet Louise Martin in a singles match at 11:30 a. m. today.

Lewis Wetherel., who drew a bye yesterday, was to face A. Martin-Legeay, French ace, also at 11:30 a. m.

SEASONAL CATCH OF POINT LOMA GIVEN

Just how many fish do they catch on one of those live-bait barges during a season at San Diego? The New Point Loma, towed into the harbor to her winter anchorage at San Diego this week, hung up the following record, according to Bargemaster Guy Perkins:

Yellowtail, 4,551; barracuda, 10,006; white sea bass, 238; bluefin tuna, 1; and marlin swordfish, 1, in addition to the unrecorded catches of kelp bass, bonita, mackerel and bottom fish.

This record is superior to that of 1934 in spite of a smaller attendance this year, the report showed.

Mentors from all parts of the south and east attended the fifth annual summer school for coaches at Duke university, conducted by Coach Wallace Wade.

A 43-pound yellow catfish was caught by three boys at Knoxville, Tenn. The youths are Fred Scalf, Charley Goforth and Bill Schumach.

DON TURNOUT NUMBERS 61 HOPEFULS

Bill Cook Will Employ Three Teams Against Pasadena at Bowl

Acquisition of seven new hopefuls, swelling the junior college roster to 61, made the scramble for positions tougher today for Santa Ana's Dons, hurriedly assembling an attack for their non-conference quarrel with Pasadena's Bulldogs here Friday night.

Bruce Harnois, cocky little veteran with worlds of speed, hopes to win another letter at quarterback. Alvin Lamb, well-built back, and Tackle Bain Alexander from Santa Ana's Saints; Carl Benson and Bill Shields, 175-pound linemen from Tustin; Ernest Butterworth, tall trackman who was ineligible last season; and Leo Marett are the latest Don recruits.

Groom Three Teams

Rushing along their offense, Coaches Bill Cook and Al Reboin plan to have three teams ready to take the field against Pasadena.

"I plan to give every deserving candidate a chance," Cook said. Substitutions will be frequent not only because the Don coach wants to become more familiar with the ability of his complete squad, but also to guard against injuries. Very few of the Dons as yet are conditioned sufficiently to go four quarters Friday.

Frank (Red) McMichael, Tustin guard who gained all-County prep league honors last fall, has been forced to turn in his suit because of after-school duties. His loss was a sad blow to the Dons.

Howard Rash, ex-Saint, is making great headway at guard, and rangy John Lehnhart appears to be the man of the hour at outside half. Dick Moore, a little fellow who won his monogram last season, is displaying lots of fire at quarter and full, and teams well with Joe Herbert, a Fullerton boy who is what many call a "cinch" for first-string honors. Frank Ochoa of Anaheim and Oliver McCarter of Orange also impressed Cook yesterday.

Preps Are Developing

Burly Dick DeSmet, guard; Tackles John Meyers, Ray Devine and Clarence Bolton; and Ends Dee Fee, Al Titensor, Jack Wilson, Ellsworth Teter and Harry Stanley, among other incoming preps, are rapidly winding into shape.

After an absence of three days, Walt Durham, 180-pounder from Texas, was in suit again competing with Harold Youel, Bob Spray and Sam Bragg at center.

WOLGAST LOSES TITLE CLAIM

OAKLAND, Sept. 17. (AP)—Whatever claims Midget Wolgast of Philadelphia had to the world's flyweight boxing championship today were transferred to Small Montana, a tiny package of Filipino dynamite, who blasted out a 10-round decision victory over the Philadelphian here last night.

Wolgast, down below the flyweight limit of 112 pounds for the first time in nearly two years, couldn't overcome the Filipino's early lead.

County Grid Scene Is Both Bright and Dull

Anaheim, Orange, Huntington Beach and Brea-Olinda are optimistic.

Tustin, Garden Grove and Newport Harbor are singing the blues.

Valencia, Laguna Beach and San Juan Capistrano, as baby members of the circuit, are not expected to finish in the upper bracket, but so far have not spread any gloom.

That is the early situation in the Orange County Prep league, whose 10 schools are girding for the opening of their new football season on Oct. 18.

Anaheim's champion Colonists, tutored by Dick Glover, boast nine returning lettermen, and will be the team to beat. There is one club in particular—Orange—that feels it can turn the trick. The Panthers, who are slated for a non-league joust with Santa Ana's Saints at Poly field Friday afternoon, number more than 50, seven of whom won letters under "Stew" White last fall.

Line Is Strong

Coach Harry (Cap) Sheue is constructing his Huntington Beach machine from 30 candidates. Lack of reserve strength in the backfield and weak material at end will be Sheue's chief worries. The center of the Oiler line will be exceptionally strong, with Letterman Joe Rohrig and Ross Cowling filling the tackle posts; Capt. Jim Singleton and Jack Jenkins at guard; and James at center. Stine, husky from the Class B squad, is another first-string prospect.

Lack of weight, speed and wing experience has been advanced by Ralph Reed, Newport Harbor's blond coach, as the reason back of his gloom. The Harborites, however, have a fair nucleus around which to build a representative eleven. Capt. Al Irwin, fullback; Charles Langmade, quarter; Chet Hansen, tackle; Ralph Irwin, guard; Walt Kelly, jr., end; Jack Pilkington and Al Pearce, other linemen, are the varsity holdovers, who have been joined by a few former Class B regulars—Bud Griffin, halfback; Wayne Jones, fullback; Bill Haun, quarter; Bally, tackle; and Scoval, guard.

Little Valencia, coached by Clarence Bishop, is developing a good first-string of Del Jones, two-year quarter; Cruze Rangle and Cliff Hargrove, halves; Cliff Hamilton, two-year fullback; John Reyes and Howard Rose, ends; Larry Nelson and Joe Jamison, tackles; Dick Stafford and Jesse Couch, guard; and Harry Heppner, center.

Schedule Given

Tustin, Garden Grove, Brea, Anaheim and Huntington Beach draw home games on a staggered schedule opening Oct. 18 and ending Nov. 15. Schools will meet each other according to the size of enrollment. If there is a percentage tie for first between a large and small school at the end of the season, a play-off will decide the championship.

The complete schedule:

Oct. 18—Laguna Beach at Tustin, Valencia at Garden Grove, San Juan Capistrano at Brea, Newport Harbor at Anaheim, Orange at Huntington Beach.

Oct. 25—Tustin at Valencia, San Juan Capistrano at Laguna Beach, Brea at Orange, Garden Grove at Anaheim, Huntington Beach at Newport Harbor.

Nov. 1—Anaheim at Tustin, Valencia at Brea, Newport Harbor at San Juan Capistrano, Laguna Beach at Huntington Beach, Garden Grove at Orange.

Nov. 8—San Juan Capistrano at Tustin, Laguna Beach at Valencia, Brea at Garden Grove, Huntington Beach at Anaheim.

Nov. 15—Tustin at Newport Harbor, Brea at Laguna Beach, Valencia at San Juan Capistrano, Garden Grove at Huntington Beach, Anaheim at Orange.

Nov. 22—Playoff for championship provided there is a percentage tie between the first two teams.

UNKNOWNS UPSET TWO NET STARS IN L. A. TOURNEY

By PAUL ZIMMERMAN

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 17. (AP)—Two of the seeded stars were left behind today as the men's singles play of the ninth annual Pacific Southwest tennis championships went into the second round.

Absent when the 16 remaining contestants lined up for another skirmish in quest of the throne held by Fred Perry were Enrique Maier, champion of Spain, and Henry Culley, Santa Barbara, listed seventh in the American draw.

Favorites Favored

There was little prospect of the dozen remaining seeded players being displaced today with the favorites meeting for the most part California's youthful and less experienced troops.

Yet there were few who had any idea yesterday that Jack Lynch, the Stanford player, would be able to turn back Maier 6-4, 4-6, 6-1; or that Ed Woodhall, best known because of his marital ties with Zasu Pitts, the screen actress, would eliminate Culley, 7-5, 2-6, 6-4.

Shields Threatened

Wilmer Allison, national champion, was expected to encounter little difficulty in disposing of young Bill Robertson of San Marino, Cal. Frank Shields, former first ranking player of the country whose game appears to be at its peak, had a more formidable foe in Joe Hunt, Los Angeles, national boys' doubles champion.

Don Budge, Oakland's brilliant Davis cup player, whom many expect to crash through for his first big title here, was bracketed with Edward Burns, of Hollywood's motion picture colony, from whom he was expected to receive little opposition. Johnny Van Ryn, national doubles champion of Philadelphia, was a one-sided favorite to beat Billy Doeg of Santa Monica's famous tennis family.

TULANE'S TED COX BREAKS RULE, SEES GOOD TEAM

By RALPH WHEATLEY

NEW ORLEANS, Sept. 17. (AP)—Big Ted Cox, Tulane's head coach, standing 6 feet 4 and weighing 250 pounds, is a silent man and sports writers generally have to be content with a grunt when it comes to discussing his team. But this year he gave notice:

"The old saying among coaches that flowers that bloom in the spring wilt in the fall does not apply to this squad. So far the cream of the crop of the spring is looking better this fall than they did last spring. I am well pleased with the outlook."

For Cox this is fluent speech. If he says that much he must be bubbling over with enthusiasm for the 1935 Green Wave. And he has basis for optimism. If his sophomores settle down to a steady pace early in the season there is no reason why he should not stretch a bright light across the football sky.

Brilliant Passers

He has a brilliant passing team, a fast running attack, two good kickers and weight and strength enough for a solid defense. The team has both speed and power and reserve. All it lacks is experience.

The pass, both forward and lateral, will be the main spring of the offense.

The backfield holds three halfbacks who have mastered the technique. Barney Mintz, captain and last year's star, Dick Watson and Troy Odom, the last two sophomores.

13 Out of 15

Mintz completed 13 out of 15 in scrimmage and the other two accurate bullet passes. To receive them are Fred Preisser, sophomore of New Orleans, and Hal Memtsas, junior of New Orleans, 175 pound ends. Then there is Roy Ary, 200 pound tackle from Stigler, Okla., who has the speed to get down field if necessary to shift him to end. Dick Page, the quarterback, can both throw and receive.

The quarterback position may be termed a weakness if there is one. Page is the only experienced quarter but Wiltz Ott, of Oskya, Miss., is developing behind Page.

Y. M. C. A. COURT SEASON NEAR

Basketball enthusiasts interested in placing teams in the Church and Commercial leagues this fall have been requested to meet with Secretary Ralph Smedley at the Santa Ana Y. M. C. A. Thursday night at 7:30 o'clock.

Schedule arrangements will be discussed, and entries received. The meeting will be open to players as well as their managers, Mr. Smedley said.

DUSEK DOWNS WASHBURN ON MATS

Dirty Ernie Is Nice Guy Compared to Rival at Local Performance

By FRANK ROGERS

Give some guys an inch and they want a mile—so the wise men have observed. That old wisecrack holds true of wrestlers, too.

Wrestling Doity Oiny Dusek at the Orange County Athletic club last night under "no holds barred" rules Jack Washburn wanted to use the only thing that was vetoed—the strangle hold. Washburn could have employed any other grip but the choking grasp and no one would have complained. But no, he must grab Dusek by the larnyx against all the wishes and pleadings of Referee Bull Montana. And for his trouble he lost the bout.

Dusek Goes to Work

Washburn's tactics kindled wild fire in the brain of stocky Ernie Dusek and the Omaha bad-man proceeded to clean up in fast style. After Washburn had had his moment among cheers and a hail of popcorn tossed by an irate customer, Dusek went to work and captured the first fall in 5 mins. 41 secs. with a series of body slams. The second stanza a duplicate of the first with Dusek scoring on a series of elbow slams in 8 mins. 34 secs.

Washburn, one time a policeman but seldom a wrestler, was supposed to be the hero but his fancy filth transformed the usually fierce Dusek into the hero of the evening. If Ernie can hear through those heavily-puttied ears it must have been strange to him to hear cheers instead of jeers.

Strictly Scientific

In a match that was strictly scientific, Paul Boesch, New York, and Ivan Managoff, Russia, battled a full hour without a fall on either side. The boys, both clever at getting in and out of intricate tie-ups, were too evenly matched to provide any fireworks. Managoff flashed a couple of nifty inside knee locks on Boesch and snapped a brutal Boston crab while Boesch sparkled by twice sneaking out of the dreaded Indian death tie.

In a brief and lopsided "preview" of the Italo-Ethiopian warfare as interpreted by the rasslers, Fred (Il Duce) Carone, Italy, trounced Tiger (Haile Selassie) Nelson, colored, with a body slam in 9 mins. 46 seconds. Previous to the windup the boys indulged in a face-slapping bee.

Wild Bill Grubbs ran into a whirlwind in Fred Mortensen, one-time star grappler of U. C. L. A. in the opener and after each had tossed the other among the spectators half a dozen times the bout was called a draw. Much malarkey went by the boards, particularly by the spectators several of whom "chose" Grubbs but all of whom escaped injury. Some thought this was the best bout on the card but to us it was strictly Mack Sennett stuff.

YESTERDAY'S STARS

By the Associated Press

LON WARNEKE, Cubs — Checked Giants with seven hits for 19th victory.

HARLAND CLIFT and ED COLEMAN, Browns—Drove in four runs against Yankees, each getting a homer.

PAUL DEAN, Cardinals — Scored in mound duel over Van Mungo, allowing six hits, fanning six men and issuing only one base on balls.

SAMMY BYRD, Reds.—His eleventh single drove in run that beat Phillies.

TOMMY BRIDGES, Tigers — He was hit hard by Red Sox but was steady in pinches to record his 20th victory.

MACE BROWN, Pirates—Held Braves to one hit last five and one-third innings of relief hurling.

Santa Anan Leads L. B. Polo Team In Title Quest

Ed Hall, Santa Ana, will lead the Long Beach polo team in a title quest at San Diego this week end. In preliminaries to the exposition city title games last Saturday and Sunday the Long Beach four rode to victory over the San Diego Sidewinders, 4-2, and then lost to the Mission Valley team, 5-2.

Hall is captain and chairman of the beach city squad. This Saturday he will lead his team against the Mission Valley with the winner to meet the Yuma, Ariz., team for the series title. Frank Belcher, president of the San Diego exposition, will present a trophy to the winners. Hall, who is interested in promoting polo here, rides No. 3 for the Long Beach squad.

CUBS HELPED BY STEADY PITCHING

Chicago Moundsmen Come Through as Gang Wins 13 Games in Row

By ANDY CLARKE
Associated Press Sports Writer

A perusal of the records shows that the steadiness of the Cub pitchers has been the most salient factor in the meteoric advance of Chicago in the National league.

The Cubs have used only one pitcher in each of 12 of the 13 consecutive games they have won while their rivals, the Cards and the Giants, have seen their flingers shelled into the showers on various occasions during that span.

Paul Dean Works 3

In the past 13 games, Paul Dean has gone the distance three times for the Cards, his brother Dizzy, twice and Phil Collins, once. Relief pitchers finished the other games.

Hubbell pitched three entire games for the Giants and Schumacher one, but in the other nine the twirlers found the row too tough to hoe.

The Cubs subdued the Giants 8-3 behind the seven-hit pitching of Lon Warneke yesterday, that pitcher recording his 19th victory of the season. The win kept the Cubs two games ahead of the second place Cards and shoved the New Yorkers 4½ games to the rear.

30,000 See Victory

Thirty-thousand pennant mad fans howled with glee as the belting Cubs knocked holes in Terry's experiment of starting a rookie, Harry Gumbert, against the league leaders.

The Chicago batsmen, apparently resenting the affrontery of attempting to stop them with a tyro, answered by knocking out eight hits for five runs before the former Baltimore hurler was called away. Two other pitchers followed Gumbert and were more effective but the game had been salted away.

The Cards, arising from the dust of three straight defeats at the hands of the Giants, defeated the Brooklyn Dodgers 1-0 in a mound duel between Paul Dean and Van Mungo. Dean held the Dodgers to six hits while striking out six and giving but one base on balls while Van Mungo allowed only five hits, fanned seven but gave four batters free tickets.

MORE ABOUT KOENECKE

Mulqueeney said the ship was rocking dangerously and he lost all sense of direction as the struggle went on for 10 or 15 minutes. He said he had all he could do to keep the ship on an even keel without trying to aid Davis.

"Then," said Mulqueeney, "I watched my chance, grabbed the fire extinguisher and walloped him over the head."

Koenecke, who set a new major league fielding record last year with an average of .994, being credited with but two errors in 123 games, left St. Louis where the Dodgers were playing, at 3:45 p. m. yesterday for Newark.

Koenecke, born Jan. 18, 1905, at Baraboo, Wis., began his organized baseball career with Springfield, Ill., in 1927 and finished that season with Moline, where he batted .343.

He went to Indianapolis in 1928 and batted .397. In quick succession, he played with Quincy in the Three-Eye league in 1929, and with Springfield, Quincy and Indianapolis teams in 1930. With Indianapolis in 1931 he batted .354 and was considered one of the most promising of the 1932 rookie crop.

John McGraw of the New York Giants was so impressed by his performance in the minors that the Giants bought him in 1931 from Indianapolis for the equivalent of $75,000 in players. He was the last man McGraw scouted personally.

Koenecke failed to click with the Giants, however, and they sent him to Jersey City for a season. There he settled down to steady playing and was brought back to the Giants.

In 1933 the Giants released him to Buffalo of the International league on option. Back on the minors he showed up so well that he was bought by the Brooklyn Dodgers.

His first season with the Dodgers—1934—was the high spot of his baseball career.

He set his major league fielding record while batting .320.

This season, however, he hit another slump and proved of little use to the Dodgers.

Beachmen Juggle Lineup for Stars

By PAUL WRIGHT

Santa Ana and Huntington Beach will make nightball history tonight.

On the spacious floor of the Municipal bowl, where many an epic struggle has unfolded, the pennant-crazy Stars and defending champion Oilers at 8:15 begin in spirited quest of National league honors.

The seventh game should provide a dramatic fade-out for a schedule that has been in operation since May 14.

Gates Open Early

Upwards of 3,000, it is expected, will be eye witnesses to the show down. Gates will be opened at 6:45 to accommodate early birds seeking choice seats in the Sixth and Flower street stadium.

Even-stephen after six spirited tussles, the Stars and Oilers go into the most exacting test of their campaign, not only to decide the National league championship but to gain the right to represent this six-team area against Colton of the American league in the Southern California seven-game play-offs opening at Colton Friday night.

Huntington Beach would have had the series in the bag two games ago had it not been for the remarkable comeback of Jimmy Coates, upon whose slender shoulders rest Santa Ana's chances tonight.

THE LINEUPS

Huntington Beach	Santa Ana
Thiery, 2b	Denney, lf
Murray, lf	Conrad, ss
B. Smith, 1b	Urbine, 1b
L. Neva, p	Reboin, c
Rodgers, ss	Daley, rf
P. Neva, rf	Coates, p
Lower, c	Preble, 2b
Schuchardt, cf	Young, 3b
McKinley, 3b	Ballard, cf

Oilers Are Stunned

Jovial Joe Rodgers, competent field boss of the Oilers, realizes Coates is in stride, and nothing but flawless ball will pull his champions through to another pennant, he says. Santa Ana's spectacular progress after trailing 3-1 has stunned Huntington Beach, the club that was to have won in the series in five games and not more than six.

Rodgers tentatively plans to shift Orv Schuchardt and Bill McKinley, ace sluggers who have not been hitting in the series, to the bottom of his batting order. George Murray will be moved from clean-up position to follow Henry Thiery in the lead-off spot. First-baseman Bob Smith, a weak hitter against everyone but Coates, will bat third.

Pitcher Louie (Neva) Novikoff, Huntington Beach's mainstay, has been shelled freely in recent starts, but with the title so near his grasp, the rugged Russian will be a tough customer. His fast and slow ball fans from 10 to 15 per game, and these strike-outs may come at the wrong time for Santa Ana tonight.

Averages Favor Stars

Averages of the past six games of the series favor Irishman Tom Denney's Santa Anans, who also possess the psychological advantage of playing at home. The Stars have annexed 62 bingles to Huntington Beach's 56 to gain a superior batting average, .282 to .251. Defensively, the clubs have been somewhat on a par. Errors have been at a minimum—nine for Santa Ana, eight for Huntington Beach—while both have numerous fielding gems to their credit.

Scores of the past games: Oilers 7, Stars 1; Oilers 9, Stars 5; Stars 5, Oilers 2; Oilers 3, Stars 2; Stars 4, Oilers 1; Stars 5, Oilers 2.

Umpires Are Named

Stewart (Shorty) Smith of Brea and Joe Harless of Santa Ana will be two of the three umpires. Bill Affleck, one-armed official, was to have been the third, but he has other engagements in Los Angeles. Affleck will be replaced by Sam Jolley, according to President Walter Wentz.

H. B. CHAMBER APPROVES FLOOD BONDS

GROUP ASKS ROOSEVELT TO AID

Willis Warner, Norman Blaney Tell Program For Development

HUNTINGTON BEACH.—Members of the board of directors of the Huntington Beach Chamber of Commerce gave unanimous approval to the proposed $6,620,000 county flood control and water conservation bond issue at a special meeting in the chamber offices yesterday.

The directors also voted to send a telegram to President Roosevelt immediately, urging that the project be given all possible government assistance.

Willis Warner, chairman of the Orange County Water District board, spoke to the directors, telling of the proposed plan, which he said would embrace expenditure of 45 per cent of the cost by the government, with the county supervisors handling the other 55 per cent.

Norman M. Blaney, former Farm Bureau secretary, also heartily endorsed the program, telling of the overdraft of Orange county water and of need of immediate steps to correct the situation. The proposed program would be completed in about 10 months and would employ about 5000 men, he explained.

Members also voted to communicate with the county Farm Bureau and offer all possible aid in furthering the program.

H. M. Blaney, W. J. Bristol and J. S. Farquhar were appointed a committee to carry on local work supporting the program.

Books must be stacked on the floor and the building is unsafe, proponents of the plan say.

And it'll only cost residents of the district two-bits per year to have a brand new stucco building. Equipment in the old structure can be used, so there'll be little cost for furniture and shelves.

So they'll vote on a $1,500 bond issue October 2 and will ask federal aid for completing the building.

* * *

They've also received federal approval for expenditure of $1,-210 in government money for playground purposes. All the community has to do is raise $512. Quite a gob of money for a small community, but they'll do it.

By the way, what's become of our county celebration, if any?

We still think that it'd be one swell idea for all of us to get together once each year. Perhaps it'd help us in understanding each other's problems a bit. Perhaps it'd give us a chance to see and talk to the guy in the other part of the county who we know darn well is a robber of widows and orphans. He'd probably turn out to be just another ordinary human being. His ideas probably would not be exactly like ours, but maybe we'd be able to get some good out of 'em, who knows?

There'd be a chance of getting a lot of snappers and snarlers together and filling 'em up on a barbecued cow, or something, and then, when they'd be feeling nice and full and contented, letting 'em find out what sort of ideas the other guy has. Maybe full stomachs and Spanish music and an enjoyable fiesta would make for cooperation.

Not that the celebration would be merely a get-together for people who want to argue—that'd be merely an incidental. Probably much work wouldn't have to be done to get lots of city and county officials to make speeches—they have done it before. Surround people of the county with the old atmosphere of the missions, take 'em through the old buildings at San Juan Capistrano, for instance, with orchestras playing nice music, and then hand out a plate of frijoles and baked steer—couldn't help but be a great success.

"Beautify Huntington Beach."

That seems to be the war cry at the beach city this fall. The chamber of commerce has taken it up with relish, and are in full cry after city and county officials to make their community easier on the eyes.

C of C President D. B. Burry has appointed J. Sherman Denny head of a committee to contact everybody who can be contacted about making the city look better. They plan to start in on Main street at the city limits, putting in more trees and replanting grass in parkways in the center of the street.

At present the trees are missing in spots—they might be said to gape. These will be filled with new eucalyptus trees if the plan works, with the idea that the greenery will aid in covering up unsightly spots left by oil wells.

Then the county will be asked to improve the center parkway from the Five Points, where Main street joins Huntington Beach boulevard, to the city limits. This is now lined with eucalyptus trees and can easily be converted into a beautiful garden spot of a mile or so in length.

After the ambitious residents get that done, they're going to start in on other streets—sounds like a big job, but watch 'em go!

* * *

On top of all that, Secretary Will Gallienne tells us that a committee is now investigating possibility of a community hospital for the city. That'd be something. A. H. Dixon and Marcus Howard are investigating possibilities of establishing such an institution.

Seems like a community hospital would go over big there, what with all the traffic on the Coast highway and the resultant accidents.

We wish 'em luck.

The bustling organization is responsible for a new booklet, recently released, which tells about "California's safest beach" in convincing terms. They've centered their program on the beach, showing lots of fishes, small and large, and the crowds there on the Fourth of July and other holidays. Beautiful homes, their high school, which is something to brag about, beach games and even the baseball team are given a hand.

It tells about the picnic benches and tables and stoves—with free gas—and other attractions for families. Ougn.a bring more people even than were there last yaer.

CHANGES IN TOWN SEEN

Placentia's Main Street May Be Remodeled For Highway Route

PLACENTIA.—Possibility that a plan for complete remodeling of the business district of Placentia will be offered by the city council was indicated at a meeting last night when City Engineer George Bates was authorized to study costs for such a project.

The proposed plan would be included in the contemplated extension of Commonwealth avenue from Fullerton through Placentia to the Santa Ana canyon highway.

Proposals last night included setting back all business houses on the north side of Santa Fe avenue for a distance of 30 feet, allowing construction of an 80-foot highway. Costs would be covered by formation of an assessment district, it was planned. Action will probably be taken at the next council meeting, it was announced.

Two petitions were presented the council expressing confidence in Chief of Police Gus Barnes and asking that the group retain the veteran officer. The petitions, signed by 164 residents, were presented after two council members were rumored to be seeking Mr. Barnes' resignation, although no charges were made at the meeting. The petitions were held for future reference.

Grain Market

CHICAGO, Sept. 17. (AP)—Wheat prices in major world markets soared today, propelled by broad speculative buying induced by trade fears of a war outbreak in Europe and of a crop disaster in Argentina.

Quotations were jumped more than 4 cents to within fractions of the limit advance permitted for one day. May wheat sold above $1.00 per bushel, the highest price for any future delivery here since the black rust scare of early summer.

Wheat closed 3¾ to 4¼ cents higher compared with yesterday's finish, December 99¾-99¾c, and corn was 2¼-2⅝c up, December 59⅜-59¾c. Oats gained 1-1½c, rye 3½-4c and barley 2½-3c. Provisions were also sharply higher.

STOCKS AGAIN UNBALANCED BY PROFITS

Selective Buying Marks Slow Trading Pace as Few Gains Realized

By VICTOR EUBANK

NEW YORK, Sept. 17. (AP)—Selective buying, mixed with more profit taking, tended to keep the stock market off balance today.

A few rails lifted their heads at times, but trading pace was the slowest in some weeks.

Shares of Paramount first preferred gained more than 2 points and fractional improvement was shown by Case, Deere, Santa Fe, Warner Bros., National Dairy, Atlas Powder, Du Pont and National Distillers.

American Telephone dropped 2 and other losers of lesser amounts included U. S. Steel, Western Union, American Can, General Electric, Westinghouse, U. S. Smelting, Kennecott and Cerro De Pasco. A slight decline in standard brands put that stock in new low territory for the year.

The speech of Queen Wilhelmina at the opening of the Dutch parliament, strongly rejecting devaluation of the Netherlands currency and advocating further deflation measures, brought some support for the guilder.

Another recovery indicator was seen in the August consumption of crude rubber by American manufacturers. The total was reported at 39,242 long tons compared with 36,384 in July and 33,-216 in August, 1934.

REZONING OF CITY'S BUSINESS DISTRICT LOOMS; OLD RULE HIT

PRESENT LAW IS 9 YEARS OLD NOW

Planning Commission's Recommendation Is Denied By Council

The project was brought into the limelight at last night's city council meeting when the city governing body declined to take the advice of the planning commission and granted to Dr. Robert S. Wade permission to erect a $5000 office building at the northeast corner of Eighth and Bush streets.

Foresees Large City

After the council granted the permission over the planning body's adverse recommendation, Councilman Joseph P. Smith told the planners he believed the business section should be rezoned. His sentiments gained added weight when Councilman Ernest Layton said he agreed. Mr. Smith recalled that the present zoning plan was nine years old.

W. B. Martin, secretary of the planning commission, said there are now enough business lots available in the business zone to care for a city of 300,000 population. Mr. Smith replied that he expects to see a city of that size here.

C. E. Walker, chairman of the planning body, said the council's action on Dr. Wade's application didn't worry the planners. He said the planning commission had expressed its views, and indicated that from then on the responsibility was in the hands of the council.

Zoned to Apartments

Dr. Wade's application has been pending since last March, said Franklin G. West, who appeared on his behalf. The planning body previously had recommended denial of the request.

In recommending denial of the application last night the planning commission expressed the opinion that granting of the request to change the zone to one of special use was not good zoning. The district is now zoned for apartment houses.

CUT IN LIGHTING COST OFFERED

A new contract offering a 40 per cent reduction in rates on current used for overhead street lights, over and above what was used last year, was submitted to the city council last night by the Southern California Edison company. It was referred to City Attorney L. W. Blodget.

Councilman Ernest Layton, who brought the matter before the council, was asked by Councilman Joseph P. Smith if the cut doesn't look ahead to a possible general reduction in rates as a result of the bringing in of Boulder dam power, and if it would not be wise to wait and see what happens. Mr. Layton said this was a point worth investigating.

The new contract would apply only to existing overhead lights. Recently a similar contract for ornamental lights was made with the Edison company, with a 50 per cent reduction for additional current. The cut was smaller in the case of the overhead lights because these are maintained by the Edison company, Mr. Layton said.

"My nose!" Dungle mumbles. "It's nearly pulled off—
And I've not been dreaming, so kindly don't scoff."
The Hermit wakes up. "What's the matter?" he cries.
He tugs at his whiskers and rubs his blue eyes.

The 'Noes' Have It; Marriage on $75 a Month 'Isn't in the Cards'

Should a man marry on $75 a month? No, say the economists. Yes, say some of those who have. How? asks a third group. The Journal would like to know, too. So it assigned Virginia Smith, Journal staff writer, to gather and set down varying opinions of Santa Anans. They are presented in a series of articles of which this is the fifth and final.

By VIRGINIA SMITH

"LOVE GIVES ITSELF; it is not bought," may have been a good gag in Longfellow's time, but it certainly doesn't have much bulk among Santa Ana youth of the summer of 1935. The banker told them not to get married on $75 a month. Then young loves, three years tried, a doctor, and a home economist either advised them to take the oath or at least showed them how it could be done. But of 10 unmarried men and women interviewed on the subject, only one was willing to chance a marriage on that amount.

When Austin O'Malley recently said that birth, marriage and death, the three most important events of human life, were devoid of reason, he hadn't met up with the Santa Anans whose sentiments on the subject are based on cold cash.

Miss Mae Langseth, waitress, said:

"No, I think it would be pretty dull living on that amount. After you're used to working, having money and keeping busy, to settle down to that much money for two would be a pretty flat existence. If you really cared enough for a man, you could get along on that all right, though, I guess."

"I Should Say Not"

V. R. Hays, assistant manager of a local chain store, was emphatic in his disapproval of the idea:

"Why, it can't be done. You couldn't even manage on $100 a month. Economic conditions wouldn't justify a living for two. You couldn't have any luxuries. I certainly wouldn't ask any girl to try to settle down on that." Mr. Hays, whose salary far exceeds the figure in question, added, however, that he had good intentions of becoming a ripe old bachelor, anyhow.

Floyd Stewart, chancellor commander of the Knights of Pythias, had this to say:

"You can't build a home on that amount. I don't see any point in getting married unless you can make a home and rear a family."

Miss Jessie McClain, cashier, declared:

"No, I wouldn't marry a man making only $75 a month. It's hard enough for one person to live on that, let alone two. Why a couple couldn't have anything on that amount or ever do anything. Huh-uh, I wouldn't do it."

Mary Daum, a sales clerk, who has a steady clientele at one of the drug stores, pondered on the question:

"Let's see. That's about $18 a week. No, I don't think that's enough to live on or have anything nice. Nope, I wouldn't get married on $75 a month."

We'd Want

When asked if he were very much in love with a girl and had a salary of only $75 a month to offer her, Dick Ewert, jeweler, said:

"No, I wouldn't get married or just 'so-long' the girl. I'd tell her to hold the fort until we could get caught up with the financial end of things. That's not enough money to make it worth the struggle."

Miss Marie Labrucherie, assistant in book store, said:

"I haven't thought very much about it, but it seems to me it would be a pretty difficult job to get along. I'm sure I wouldn't try to do it."

Clarence Wright, cake salesman, joined the ranks of "no'ers" with this statement:

"I wouldn't marry on that amount. I'm making considerably more than that and I wouldn't tackle it on my salary. There wouldn't be much fun in trying to live on $75 a month. You couldn't have decent clothes, would have to live in a very plain house, and wouldn't have money left for extras."

Lawrence Hunter, welder, said:

"No, it would take too much scrimping to manage. The joy of married life would be gone, with all the pinching and close buying."

She'd "I Do"

Miss Irene Rose, however, didn't agree with the others.

"Well," she said, "I haven't thought very much about it, but I think a couple could manage all right. You'd have to live very simply and you couldn't do a lot of extravagant things, but you could get along. If you knew the salary was going to be steady and there was some chance for progress, I don't see any reason why you couldn't. No, I shouldn't be afraid to try it."

And to those of you who do: "The heart has reasons that reason does not understand."

—Bossuet.

And to those of you who don't: "By the time you swear you're his, shivering and sighing, and he vows his passion is infinite, undying—lady, make a note of this; one of you is lying."

—Dorothy Parker.

READY MADE WIFE

BY CORALIE STANTON

SYNOPSIS: Laurie is worried out of mind. She and Rex Moore love each other, but Rex is engaged to Wanda Steele and Laurie to Mark Albery, who employs both Rex and herself. Albery is in Berlin, after unsuccessfully trying to force Rex into an airplane "accident." And Laurie has gone to see a friend of her dancer sister Gladys, because she is sure Gladys and Jimmy Dallas, young man about town, are up to mischief.

CHAPTER XLIV
THE TRUTH

"Is Gladys with that young Dallas? Don't lie!"

Nellie nodded.

"He's left London. Where has she gone with him?"

Nelly broke down altogether. It was with difficulty that Laurie got the sense of her disjointed words.

Paris—Hotel Meurice—rue de Rivoli—they left yesterday—were to be back in the middle of the week—a dead secret.

"Are they married?" Laurie asked in a dull voice.

"I don't know. Glad was awfully close about that. But I expect so. She wouldn't have gone, would she? I couldn't get anything out of her."

"Nelly, you've done a cruel thing," said Laurie unmercifully. "You ought to have told me at once. You ought to have stopped her going somehow. I'll be getting on now. I must get to Paris as soon as it can be done."

Laurie knew well enough that girls went away on holiday trips with their young men nowadays. She knew that the world at large thought little of it. But Glad was her sister, the apple of her eye.

The quickest way to Paris was by air, of course.

She found the nearest telephone call box and rang up Rex Moore at Gretton, only to find that he was in London. Half crazy with anxiety, she got the Chelsea flat, and when his voice answered, she felt sick with relief, but spoke in the calmest voice.

"I want you to take me by air to Paris at once. Can you?"

He did not show the faintest surprise.

"Of course, I can, Laurie. As it happens, I flew my plane to Croydon this morning, and it is there. But what about Albery?"

"I must get to Paris as soon as possible." She took no notice of his question. "Could we get there tonight?"

"Certainly. I'll ring up the airfield. Where are you?"

"In Streatham."

"Then you'd better meet me at Croydon."

"I haven't any money. Perhaps just enough to pay a taxi."

"That doesn't matter. I have plenty. You're in trouble, Laurie?"

"Yes."

"Get to Croydon as soon as you can. I'll be a little after you, but when we get there, we won't waste any time."

Laurie did not have to wait long for Rex Moore at Croydon.

His plane was ready for him when he arrived.

He gave her a swift handshake and a piercing look from his grey eyes, lit up with the energy of action. He also gave her pads of cotton wool to put in her ears to shut out the noise of the engines, and borrowed a flying coat for her, as it was going to be chilly up aloft.

It was a scene that Laurie never forgot. The last lingering rays of daylight swallowed in the glaring lamps of the field. The sense of unreality, of adventure; and, in the midst of it, the casual chatter of a party of Americans who had just landed from Cherbourg, and the calmly sleeping little face of a baby in the arms of a nurse.

Laurie was too preoccupied to experience the sensation of flying. It was perfect weather. She noticed nothing, not even the noise of the engines.

She sat in a kind of trance behind Rex Moore. Now and then she caught sight of his profile, as he turned his head. His face was set. He had no thought, she felt, but that of steering them across the night skies to their destination.

But she was wrong. Rex Moore was thinking of her. His thoughts were gloomy and harsh. He was remembering what Wanda Steele had said to him yesterday. Her words of sympathy had been like so many stabs.

"You know how I hate gossip and scandal, Rex, but you were well rid of your wife. I hate running down women, too, but I can't forgive her treating you as she has done.

"With my own eyes I saw her coming out of that young Dallas' chambers the other day. They were on the best of terms, evidently. He was in his dressing-gown, talking to her on the landing. And my friends, who I had been visiting, tell me that he leads the wildest kind of life.

"He has a shocking reputation, and a young woman often visits him there quite late at night. I suppose it's she. I do feel you ought to know, as you're making the sacrifice of letting her divorce you. I can't think how she's going to get away with it. I suppose it's Albery's money that has turned her head."

He had silenced her with a few words, but the poison worked in his veins.

Was this girl who sat behind him that sort of woman? Of course, he knew young Dallas and she had met at Gretton. But was she carrying on an intrigue with him—when she was going to marry Albery? She was mercenary; she must be. She was not in love with Albery; he was sure of that.

The journey to Laurie was like a dream. They flew steadily on and on. It grew dark. Every now and then she looked down and saw lights, like fire-flies, far below. She did not know whether it lasted six hours or one. If they rose or dipped, she was unaware of it.

They did not exchange a single word until they circled down into a sea of light and landed at Le Bourget as easily as a gull drops on to the sea.

"A little after midnight," Rex Moore said, looking at his watch, when they stood once more on land. "Not too bad time. Did you like it, or did it bore you?"

"I don't know," she answered truthfully.

He said nothing more, but took her through the customs and the passport office.

They found the car waiting to drive them to Paris.

"Where do you want to go to?"

"I don't want to tell you."

"And you don't want to tell me what you are here for?"

"No. It is private business."

"It must be deucedly important," he said in the old mockng way.

"It is."

"Does Albery know you are coming over here?"

"No. I don't want anybody to know. That's why I asked you to bring me."

"A compliment, I'm sure." The ugly poison still worked. Was she over here to meet this young Dallas? Impossible. She couldn't have asked him to pilot her in that case. She would have to be insane to do that.

There were no other passengers for Paris.

"You must tell the driver where you want to go," he said coolly.

"To the Place de la Concorde." Laurie had been in Paris only once before, last year, when she and Glad had spent a week there on a conducted tour. She knew that the rue de Rivoli ended at the Place de la Concorde. "Are you coming to Paris, too?" she asked him suspiciously.

"Naturally, I don't want to spend the night here. May I ask, do you want me to take you back?"

"I don't know—oh, no, of course not!" She realized that there was no room for Gladys in the plane. And she was not going to leave Paris without Glad.

The car moved away.

Again the journey was made in complete silence.

When they drew up at the corner of the Place, Rex Moore helped her out of the car, and asked her:

"Laurie, won't you trust me?"

"I can't. Please don't keep me talking."

"Do you expect me to leave you alone in Paris at this time of night?"

"I'm quite all right. Please, I must hurry!"

He looked at her and his voice changed.

"All right, Laurie, I am going to the Grand Hotel, close to the Opera. Promise me that you will let me hear from you later on in the morning. I'm not asking any more questions, but I'm not budging from Paris until I've heard from you."

"Thank you, Rex. I'll let you hear from me if I can, but I'm not going to promise."

"I'll wait until I do."

Tomorrow, Laurie tries to find her giddy sister.

City Council Doings In Brief

The city council last night received a letter from the Orange chamber of commerce suggesting that President Roosevelt be urged to approve Orange county's application for federal aid on its water conservation program. The letter was referred to Mayor Fred Rowland with power to act.

A communication was received from Dan Mulherron, head of the Works Progress administration in Orange county, saying that the Santa Ana project for providing guards at school intersections had been disapproved because this is regarded as a normal municipal function. Mr. Mulherron's letter said that it is intended that this restriction be removed later.

An invitation from the Orange County Fire Chiefs association, asking the council to attend its meeting at Laguna Beach on September 19 at 7 p. m., was referred to Fire Commissioner William Penn.

A letter was received urging that Building Inspector Sam Preble attend the annual meeting of the Pacific Coast Building officials conference at Pasadena, October 8 to 12. The invitation was referred to Mr. Preble with the suggestion that he attend if possible.

A communication was received from Howard I. Wood, secretary of the chamber of commerce, informing the council that the board of directors of the chamber had approved a recommendation that through traffic arteries be constructed on either side of Main street, and that South Main street be extended to Corona Del Mar. At the request of the council Mayor Fred Rowland appointed Street Commissioner Ernest Layton, City Engineer J. L. McBride and Councilman William Penn as a committee to work with the chamber of commerce on the project.

On recommendation of the planning commission, property at Walnut and Main streets was ordered posted for special use, after an application had been received from the Goodyear Tire and Rubber company for authority to erect a super-service station at that location. A joint hearing will be held on October 7, by the council and the planning body.

A letter was received from the 20-30 club, asking why the council had deferred action on its offer to supply materials for construction of a bowling green in the Santiago parkway. The council authorized appointment of a committee to inform the club that the park property is not now in a condition for the improvement and that nothing definite can be done until the Works Progress administration gets under way.

A request from Tom Bowen for permission to install a new and used car and automobile parts business at 1732 West Fifth street was referred to a committee composed of City Attorney L. W. Blodget, City Clerk Ed Vegely and Police Chief Floyd Howard, with power to act.

The council granted to Floyd Emmett a permit to conduct dances on Saturday nights in Veterans' hall. Mr. Emmett has a contract with the American Legion, owner of the building, for its use for the purpose of conducting dances.

O. J. Area, insurance man, explained to the council a proposition for group insurance for city employes and their families, asking the council's approval of the plan. The matter was referred to Mayor Fred Rowland, City Attorney L. W. Blodget and Auditor Lloyd Banks.

After the planning commission had recommended denial of the application, the council granted the request of Dr. Robert S. Wade for a permit to construct an office building on the northeast corner of Eighth and Bush streets.

The application of Jack Felton for authority to operate a used car lot at 212-214 East First street was granted on the recommendation of the planning commission.

The council granted a permit to N. C. Severance to conduct a skating rink in a hall at Fourth and Van Ness streets. Mr. Severance has been conducting the rink under a temporary permit.

A proposed contract with the Southern California Edison company, providing a 40 per cent reduction in rates for electric current on overhead street lights, on all current in excess of the amount used during the past year, was brought before the council by Councilman Ernest Layton. The contract was referred to City Attorney L. W. Blodget.

Councilman Layton reported the appointment of William Garvin to work on a project for improving parking conditions in the business section. The appointment was approved by the council. Mr. Garvin, who is an inspector in the city clerk's office, is to work two days per week on the project.

The application of D. T. Kenyon, Tustin, and C. R. Stauffer, Santa Ana, for permission for Jehovah's Witnesses to operate a sound car in the residential sections of the city was referred to Police Commissioner Plummer Bruns, Police Chief Floyd Howard and City Attorney L. W. Blodget.

20-30 CLUB RAPS COUNCIL

'What About Bowling Green?'

The Santa Ana 20-30 club exploded a young bomb at last night's city council meeting.

At a session which previously had droned along with routine matters, the club flashed a letter on the council demanding to know why its 10-months-old offer to help the city secure a bowling green has been "tossed from one committee to another," with no definite action being taken.

"Will you please state your reasons for not wishing to accept this project, so other organizations of a progressive nature will know what the attitude of our council is going to be," said the letter.

The session immediately became more lively.

The letter said the offer was made to the council last November. It was recalled that the matter was referred to a committee and that Councilman Ernest Layton and William Penn had agreed that there was only one location for the bowling green, that in the Santiago parkway. Then, said the communication, the subject was referred to the park and forestry board.

The communication said that the club has put money in the bank to provide materials for the project, and indicated that the organization is wondering why something doesn't happen.

It developed that there is an apparently good reason why the bowling green has not become a reality. Mr. Layton said that he favors the project, but that at present the Santiago park is not in a condition for its consideration. A fill must be made at the selected location before the green can be built, Mr. Layton explained.

Furthermore ,the city and county, as well as the city of Orange, which has a park adjoining the Santa Ana Santiago creek park, are interested in working out a comprehensive plan for development of this area, he said While it is not expected that this would interfere with the bowling green location, the official bodies desire to know how the complete setup is going to look before any commitments are made, he indicated.

Another cause for delay was explained by Councilman Joseph Smith. He said that the project will have to be carried out with the assistance of the Works Progress administration and that this agency is not yet functioning.

In the end the council authorized appointment of a committee to wait upon the 20-30 club and explain these things.

TRAFFIC PLAN GIVEN OKEH BY COUNCIL

The proposal that additional traffic arteries be extended through the city on either side of Main street moved a step forward last night when the city council authorized appointment of a committee to work on the project with the chamber of commerce.

Mayor Fred Rowland named Street Commissioner Ernest Layton, City Engineer J. L. McBride and Councilman William Penn as the committee, with Mr. Layton as chairman. The action was taken after a letter had been received from Howard I. Wood, secretary of the chamber, which said that the board of directors of the chamber had approved a recommendation that the street extensions be made.

The suggestion was made with the idea that traffic should be routed through Santa Ana rather than around the city, which it is contended would happen if Santa Ana boulevard were extended.

Annual Junior College Faculty Reception Will Have Innovation of Dance

Calvin Flint To Direct Affair

Only Incoming Students Will Be Invited to First 1935 Fete

Innovations are in the wind for the annual faculty reception at the Santa Ana Junior college September 24 at Veterans' hall.

This year, not only will the students come to meet their professors in a social way, but they'll be entertained at a dance from 8:30 to 12 o'clock. For those who don't dance, Calvin C. Flint, dean of men, who is in charge of arrangements, says card games of various sorts will be in order.

In previous years, returning students as well as frosh have been bidden to the affairs. This year, however, only incoming students will be guests at the affair.

Semi-formal in nature, the dance will have Jack McCarty's Rhythm Rogues to play the popular strains. Frank A. Henderson, superintendent of city schools, D. K. Hammond, director of the Junior college, the board of education, and faculty members will be in the line.

Punch will be served. More than 350 persons are expected to attend.

Exclusively under faculty arrangement, the dance is the only social affair of the year in which the student social committee will not assist with direction. It heads the social calendar for the year.

The ceremony took place in the Church of the Transfiguration with the Rev. J. J. Quealley officiating, and the "I do's" were transmitted by wiring concealed in the church flowers to the bedside of the bride's uncle, Robert H. Davidson, Bell Telephone company official, who was prevented by illness from being present.

Designs Own Gown

The bride wore a distinctive gown of white net over white satin, with fitted bodice, square neckline, and pleated and fitted sleeves, for which she had drawn the design. Her tulle veil was caught into a halo of satin and ruffled net banded by fresh orange blossoms sent her by Miss Margaret Esau and Mr. and Mrs. Herman Powell of Santa Ana. She carried a sheaf of white gladiolus with gladiolus shower.

Her aunt, Mrs. R. H. Davidson, in blue net over taffeta with yellow gladiolus bouquets, was matron of honor.

Mary Stoddard

It's a Negative Personality Who Says "No" to Anything Her Mother Didn't Do

By MARY STODDARD

Changing moral practices sometimes leave girls wanting to do one thing and yet afraid not to follow the crowd and the popular fads. A girl may be quiet and reserved, hating to accept dates because she finds her livelier friends are more in demand and she's not wanted very much. A young wife who has a friend like that writes to this column, hoping that her letter will reach the young girl.

Dear Miss Stoddard: I'm so tired of hearing smug girls with small, unimportant virtues moaning about the fast life that other girls lead, that I felt I wanted to write to a friend of mine through your columns. She's always fussing about not having a good time because she doesn't like to smoke or drink. She has a completely negative personality. In addition to not doing these few things, she's dead as a door nail in other respects. I think she should be wakened up.

My husband occasionally remarks that he'd sooner marry an intemperate woman on the chance of reforming her than he would a girl with so warped and petty a view as to think it matters a darn whether she smokes or not, except from a physical standpoint. And a more discriminate man does not exist than my husband.

It was once an almost universal opinion that only low women smoked. Later, that only wildly-inclined women indulged, and these the men never married, only amused themselves with. This was several years back but there are still thousands of little fools who believe it yet and from their self-imposed pedestals answer primly, "No, thanks."

And when you're in a gathering, being hurt with jealousy and envy at the sight of a more charming, open-minded, more decent, intelligent and likable young woman surrounded by admiring men (and quite incidentally sipping a cocktail), don't attribute her popularity to the aforementioned cocktail or to the fancy that the men are only amusing themselves and will eventually, when ready to marry, turn to bachelordom.

You'll still be sitting at home, inanimated, stupid, behind-the-times. Then again, you might be out once again receiving disillusion in masculine aims with some cheap sensualist who couldn't possibly attract the girl I have just described. Here's a hope for you though—you may be married to some prude as limited and lacking in the appreciation of the graces of living as yourself.

I suppose good music is nothing more than an unintelligible noise to you, but heres' a tip. Go out to the auditorium to one of the winter concerts in Los Angeles this season. Go into the lobby during intermission. Observe those women with cigarets in their hands. Those whom in your indignation you behold are the respected and much-loved and cherished wives and mothers of Los Angeles' elite, not beer-parlor loungers, or public dance-hall inhabitants.

I wish I could laugh at you, but there are too many of you. You are legion, you who think Victor Herbert is highbrow, who consider Jean Harlow and James Cagney "swell," who enjoy the ancient ghoulries of Edward Guest's sentiments, who never read a word of Shakespeare, who never was thrilled by a score of Wagner's, who think H. L. Mencken and Sinclair Lewis should be deported. No, as long as America's fate rests in the laps of people like you, there can be no laughter.

Autry's new picture is a western thriller, interspersed with a number of his cowhand songs which he sings himself. He wrote "Bury Me Not on the Lone Prairie," "When the Work's All Done This Fall," "Cowboy Heaven" and scores of other western songs.

"The 39 Steps" is a murder mystery thriller. It concerns a man who finds himself handcuffed to a girl through an amazing series of adventure. He hates her, and she hates him, but they find love at the end of the picture.

Mrs. R. H. Sandon: Courtesy is one of the finest things a man can have. I always admire a boy or man who is truly courteous.

SANTA ANA IS 'BUILDING CONSCIOUS'; NEW HOMES SPRING UP

PERMITS FOR CONSTRUCTION HERE SHOW STEADY GAIN

Totals For First Eight Months This Year Are Four Times Greater Than For Same Period Last Year; Houses For Rental Purposes Are Scarce

Santa Ana has become "building conscious."

Throughout the city new homes are springing up, and old homes are being modernized. As building permits are totaled each month, a steady gain in the number of permits issued and the values is evidenced.

Totals for the first eight months this year were four times greater in value than were the permits issued during the same period of time last year. The valuation placed on permits issued since January 1 is $751,568. Permits issued during the first eight months of 1934 totaled $184,214.

In all, there were 478 building permits issued during the first eight months of the year. Of that number, 47 were for the construction of private residences, the remainder were mainly for re-roofing, alterations and repairs. Last month, there were four permits issued for the construction of private residences. There have been three such permits issued this month.

The homes that are being constructed range in value from $4,000 to $25,000. Most of them are of frame construction finished in stucco. In the Broadway Park district there are six new homes under construction at present. Several others are being built in other sections north of Fourth street and west of Broadway.

Not only are there new homes being built, but new residents are coming into Santa Ana every day. Many of them are moving into homes vacated by those who are now building. These new residents eventually will be the owners of new homes.

Reports from realtors to the effect that there is a scarcity of homes for rental purposes indicates a steady increase in building in Santa Ana. With hundreds of people coming into the city, some place must be provided for them to live. The activity in building and the influx of newcomers is a sign of increasing prosperity, say Santa Ana business men.

ORDER HEARING ON ZONE PLEA

The city council will conduct a public joint hearing on October 7 on the application of the Goodyear Tire and Rubber company for permission to erect a super-service station at the southwest corner of Main and Walnut streets.

The company's application was before the council last night. On recommendation of the city planning commission the property was ordered posted for special use.

The company has negotiated a lease with Dr. Garland Ross, owner of the property. It is anticipated that a building 40 by 100 feet in size will be erected there, the company's application said. The dimensions of the property are 100 by 125 feet. Austin and Wildman, local architects, have been employed to draw plans for the structure.

The company plans a complete super-service station at this location, with four gasoline pumps, grease rack, wash rack and all other services of a modern establishment. The Goodyear store is now located on East First street.

HATFIELD QUITS EXCHANGE JOB

Bob Hatfield, secretary of the Orange County Builders' Exchange, today announced he had tendered his resignation to the board of directors at a special meeting held at the Exchange offices last night. Mr. Hatfield, who has been secretary of the organization since Feb. 1, this year, will enter private business in Fullerton, he said, the nature of which he would not reveal at this time. His resignation will become effective Oct. 15.

No decision on his successor has been made by the board, Mr. Hatfield said. A special meeting to consider applications for the position will be held next Tuesday.

TEST FILED ON UTILITIES ACT

BALTIMORE, Sept. 17. (AP)—A petition challenging constitutionality of the public utility holding company act passed by the recent congress was filed in United States district court late yesterday. It was the first court attack on the measure.

The petition was filed in the names of J. B. Whitworth and F. Donald Fenhagen, trustees for American States Public Service company, a holding company which controls operating properties in several Western states but whose main office is in Baltimore.

Attorneys made it clear the action is a test case.

COUNTY TO AID RELIEF SURVEY

Orange county will cooperate in a state-wide survey of relief conditions, according to a message sent Ralph Jenny, San Diego, who is in charge of the survey, by Willard Smith, acting chairman of the board of supervisors.

Decision to cooperate in the survey was reached late Saturday by the Supervisors after Supervisor W. C. Jerome reported on a series of conferences he attended in San Francisco last Thursday and Friday.

Word of the proposed survey was contained in a telegram to the board of supervisors by T. E. Caldecott, chairman of the relief committee of the state supervisors' association. The conferences in San Francisco were between Mr. Caldecott's committee, representatives of the state chamber of commerce, Frank Y. McLaughlin, state emergency relief administrator, and his aides.

DENY LIBRARY APPOINTMENT

"Like Mark Twain's death, an announcement that the library board was considering the appointment of Mrs. Mona Summers Smith as librarian is greatly exagerated," Dr. John Ball, head of the library board, said today. "So far as I know, she has not even made an application for the position, and I can't remember ever having discussed with board members the possibility of her appointment."

The statement made today by Dr. Ball followed an article published yesterday to the effect that Mrs. Smith was being considered for the position.

WPA MAY OKEH GUARDS PLAN

That there is hope for Santa Ana's project for maintainnig guards at school intersections was indicated last night in a letter to the city council, signed by Dan Mulherron, Orange county director of the Works Progress administration.

Although the letter informed the council that the city's project for WPA assistance in maintaining guards had been disapproved, Mr. Mulherron's communication also said that it is intended that such restrictions as the one which prevented granting of the application are intended to be removed later.

The project application was denied because it was held that maintenance of crossing guards is a normal function of city government, Mr. Mulherron said.

Last year guards were maintained with the assistance of the State Emergency Relief administration.

OIL MEN SEEK NEW SOLUTION

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 17. (AP)—Unable to muster sufficient support to a proposed new oil production curtailment agreement, leaders of the petroleum industry in the state today sought another solution to problems growing out of uncontrolled output.

Neal H. Anderson, chairman of a committee of seven named to push the curtailment agreement through, advised the operators the proposal had failed to carry and that the committee was disbanding.

He announced a "new plan has been devised that the committee sanctions and approves, which we believe will tend toward a quicker solution of the problem that confronts us."

SEEKS NEW TRIAL IN $6,800 DAMAGE SUIT

Denied damages by a jury in his $6,800 suit against the Quaker Oats company and E. P. Stewart, J. W. Shield, through his attorney, Charles D. Swanner, yesterday filed a notice of motion for a new trial. In addition to the statutory grounds for seeking a new trial, Mr. Shields alleges that the court erred in permitting the jury to take all instructions into the jury room without the consent of counsel for Mr. Shields.

Mr. Shields allegedly was injured July 13, 1934, when his car was involved in a collision with an automobile driven by Mr. Stewart and owned by the Quaker Oats company. The crash was on Highway 101 at the county hospital.

20-30 CLUB WILL HEAR COURT OFFICER

Bill White, court reporter in department No. 2 of the superior court in Orange county, will be the speaker tonight on the program presented at the weekly meeting of the Twenty-Thirty club in the James cafe. Mr. White will relate stories centering around his experiences in Havana.

Several weeks ago Mr. White, who was at one time secretary to former President Theodore Roosevelt, told Twenty-Thirtians of his work with the President. His talk tonight is based on material gathered while secretary to one of Cuba's former presidents.

Radio Roundup

TONIGHT'S PROGRAMS

By HOMER CANFIELD

CONSTITUTION DAY programs are the order of things in radio tonight. Five such broadcasts are scheduled. To enumerate: 1—Judge Martin Vries speaking over KNX at 5:45. 2—Secretary of Commerce Roper delivers a "Constitution day" address for KFI-NBC dialers at 6:30. 3—A full-hour program from the Elks temple, Los Angeles, in charge of Harold William Roberts, and featuring Charles Wakefield Cadman, is booked for KFAC, starting at 7. 4—KFWB will remote a half-hour from the Trinity auditorium, Los Angeles, at 8. 5—From the War Memorial Opera House in San Francisco, KHJ-CBS, 9 to 9:30, will carry a talk by John Francis Neyland, eminent attorney.

Broadcasts Again "Crime Clues," a favorite of those who like their drama filled with mystery, wind and thunder machines, shrieks in the dark, and the slow, steady dripping of blood, returns to the weekly schedule for a KFI-NBC release at 8:30 o'clock.

No details of tonight's broadcast have been made known, but we'll guarantee all the above effects will get overtime.

In the past, this series has been heard locally only on transcriptions. It's the flesh and blood (Don't say that word! B-r-r-r-r-r-r) version now, however.

New Band Larry Lee is the youthful dance maestro you'll hear instead of Orville Knapp, KHJ, 10:30 to 11 o'clock. Lee is new to western listeners. His band is comprised of four reeds, two brass, two guitars, two violins, one bass, piano and drums.

For vocalists there are Billy Richmond, Joe Regans and Bob Miketta.

Conventions Two national conventions - the contractors' and the Odd Fellows', will be on KHJ at 4:30 and 7:30 o'clock, respectively.

The National Association of General Contractors, meeting in San Diego, will hear brief talks by Nick F. Helmers, president of the association; E. J. Harding, managing director of the national chapter; H. M. Walker, chief of the southern California chapter; D. J. Witner, regional director; F. W. Marlow, district director of the southern California Federal Housing Administration, and Col. William H. Evans, southern California supervisor for the FHA.

Stay-at-home members of the Odd Fellows chapters throughout the country will assemble by radios to hear Rep. William A. Pittenger of Minnesota, grand sire of the Sovereign Grand Lodge of the Independent order of Odd Fellows, and Sen. M. M. Logan of Kentucky, past grand sire, addressing the conventioners at Atlantic City.

Changes Hour Moved back a half-hour due to the Odd Fellows broadcast, "Calling All Cars" will be heard at 8 o'clock, KHJ.

Sue Carol, screen beauty, will be featured in "Eighteen Days of Freedom."

LET'S SEE FOR OURSELVES

THE SANTA ANA chamber of commerce voted yesterday to study two bond issues which the people are to vote on within the next month. One calls for bonds totaling more than $6,000,000 to match hoped-for funds from governmental agencies, to build a system of flood control and water conservation for Orange county; the other issue is for $180,000, also to be added to government money to finish the rebuilding of schools wrecked by earthquake.

Chamber directors decided they would hold meetings and hear what those who have studied both questions have to say about it. That's a good idea but it isn't nearly enough. In spite of the liberal allotments expected from the government, there still is a big sum left for Orange county to pay in the future. We would want more than good speakers to help us decide whether to spend that much in any other venture.

* * *

GOVERNMENT has become big business in which every one of us must play an important part. We cannot escape it, even if we would. We must make up our minds to accept and use what is offered us or defend ourselves against it.

There is only one way to decide these two bond questions. That is by personal investigation. We may have ever so great a trust in those we elect as leaders but no wise business man is going to take the unsupported word of even the experts when there is so much at stake.

The Journal therefore suggests that a move started yesterday among a group of business men to conduct a series of automobile excursions over the site of the flood control system be given unanimous support. We would go further and suggest that these same groups of investigators traverse the entire length of the Santa Ana river and see what becomes of the water that once came to Orange county.

We would suggest that they make a careful study of the so-called flood control system which has been built in San Bernardino county with SERA money and learn first hand why we should think about water and how to insure a supply here.

* * *

WE SUGGEST these traveling investigators take a look at some of the country in the West Riverside district which was fertile until the water gave out. We would like to have them see—if they haven't—the long, palm-lined avenues which once ran through a rich country. We would like to have them see the remains of an irrigation system. We would like to have them see the dead stumps of citrus trees. It would help them realize what could happen here. We would like to have them hear about Bunker Hill dike and the great system of check and diversion dams behind it and tell us how much water gets through them and back into the Santa Ana river. It would be an eye-opener.

* * *

THESE excursions can be conducted with little difficulty. Farmers are making their own investigations and finding out first hand for themselves. It is up to the business man now to do the same thing. None of us will be in business long if we don't get more water. We might as well face that fact right now. Farming will not be profitable if we let two water companies monopolize the scant supply or depend on the expensive Metropolitan system to bring it in. And what will Santa Ana or any other Orange county city amount to without profitable farming?

And after we have been over the proposed water system and learned everything we can about it, let's go to the high school plant where the board of education asks for more money to finish the job. We'll all know what we are being asked to decide after we have done these things; we'll be better business men and better citizens.

'BARGAIN' MERCHANDISE

A WARNING to John Citizen to guard against petty racketeers with wild promotion schemes and colored sales stories on "bargain" merchandise is sounded by Alvin E. Gillett, Association of Commerce secretary of Madison, Wisconsin.

Human gullibility for old-time "rackets" with new frills, he says in the current Rotarian Magazine, is taking untold millions every year from an innocent public—money that should go into the tills of local merchants. According to the National Better Business Bureau, there is an annual loss from such operations of $8 for every man, woman and child in the United States.

"Business men, for example, are solicited by mail to buy raincoats, suitcases, or similar articles. The bait is an unusual price if the prospect will give a letter of recommendation. He may get a first rate article himself. But all his friends get copies of his recommendation—and if they fall for the stunt, they sometimes get the worst kind of shoddy.

"There is also the 'smuggled goods' racket. It usually runs to 'oriental' rugs, 'imported' lace, 'fur' coats, and so on. The salesman may be a 'sailor,' or somebody supposedly just back from abroad. The goods—whisper it: —came in duty free. That's the yarn. Often they are the cheapest sort of trash. One woman I know of paid $80 for four 'oriental' rugs that were not even worth $20. The 'Persian' who sold them was arrested, luckily, and returned the woman's money.

"The number of rackets is almost limitless. Unordered merchandise may be sent. Many charity appeals are blatant rackets. So are many so-called 'railroad magazines' and time-books, year-books, radio-logs, directories and shippers' guides.

"The racketeers are sometimes so close to the borderline of honesty that it is impossible to prosecute them. They are a threat to all honest business."

NEW YORK, Sept. 17.—No one has more fun out of the business of writing or is more versatile than Homer Croy. Ripley recently broadcast in his B. I. O. N.'s that Croy was the first student in the first journalism school but never took up journalism permanently.

He was also first to go around the world taking motion pictures. As a sideline he had himself kodaked alongside the Sphinx using Whoosis toothpaste, or on the banks of the Ganges ballyhooing some other advertised product. With these profits he knocked about Paris for two years.

The book that brought him greatest literary fame—"West of the Water Tower"—was written anonymously. He was the author of Will Roger's first talking picture. Among other balls he has kept in the air simultaneously are syndicate writing, lecturing, magagine-ing and radio scripts and talks.

Croy was born on a farm near Marysville, Mo., and is as bald as his talented fellow Missourian, Courtney Ryley Cooper. His personal letters and their final greetings are sought by collectors. He is the most hilarious correspondent since Mark Twain.

Circulation managers say no tragedy in New York's memory so stunned the metropolis as the extras announcing the deaths of Rogers and Post. Nearest to it was the Lindbergh kidnaping. Sales in department stores and smaller shops came to a full stop for almost an hour. The news eclipsed the luncheon period and proprietors report that, while people ordered, scarcely anyone ate and in instances food was left untouched. Along streets men and women were brushing away tears. Even shock-proof Wall Street seemed dazed.

Fifth avenue has a queer, hatless, well dressed gaffer who streaks like an arrow through the sidewalk flow every late afternoon. He generally turns south from Fifty-seventh and zooms a bee line down the middle of the pavement. He scarcely varies an inch either way and those in his path are pushed aside, helter skeltor. So far he has gotten away with it. The attitude has been tolerant amusement. But some day he'll lock horns with an Old Man Grump.

* * *

Then the window washer on a Forty-second street skyscraper who gives a free show every week or so at a high window. He drums up a crowd by waving. Then, standing on the sill, unhooks his safety belt and goes, Max Baer fashion, into a teetering gutta percha legged attempt at falling and catching himself in the nick of time. Some day, too, he will be fired. Or miss.

The old Hippodrome's renaissance gives a fresh gasp to seedy Sixth avenue. The Hip—like London's Old Vic—has a sentimental tug for every New Yorker and visitor more than 30. For a long time it was shuttered, then came a succession of efforts—small time vaudeville, grind pictures and low priced grand opera. It was ready for the wrecker's axe when Billy Rose thought up his combination circus, musical comedy and museum idea. Rose has a way of clickling with what looks to be fantastic falaroo—his dollar dinner with a complete show, for example. Anyway the Hip again trumpets with elephants, roars with wild beasts and clatters with horses. And has Dick Manley as the modern Tody Hamilton. Even the sidewalk ticket speculator has returned along with the hawkers of red balloons, banners and other gimcracks. Unless the latest venture scores, the building is to come down to make way for another of those two storied, nearly all glass buildings that have supplanted, at least temporarily, the 60 and 80 floored wonders of the boom.

* * *

A first visit to the Hip was to interview Slivers, the clown, whose pantomime baseball game was perhaps the superlative achievement of any mime. Anna Marble, now Mrs. Channing Pollock, was the press agent, and we found Slivers in the droop of a dolor, this warm summer night on a fire escape seeking a wisp of air. I had read of the sadness of clowns and thought his dejection a part of the Pagliacci pose. But it must have been pretty real, for a few months later, the man who made the world laugh so uproariously, died by his own hand.

The Merry-Go-Round

By DREW PEARSON and ROBERT S. ALLEN

WASHINGTON, Sept. 17.—The Harold Ickes-Harry Hopkins death battle which you have read so much about in the papers is not a personal death battle at all.

In the first place, these two warriors are good friends—in fact, about the only two men in the New Deal who have not let personal conviction spoil a happy personal relationship.

Furthermore, the issue they are fighting over is not confined to them but extends right htrough the cabinet. Hopkins and Ickes are the duelists picked for public exhibition. But what the public doesn't know is that other New Dealers secretly feel just as keenly about it.

The battle started back around Thanksgiving last year, when Roosevelt was at Warm Springs. At that time Ickes and Tugwell spent all of one afternoon arguing with him. What they both contended was:

Spend large amounts of money through a big building program, but spend it through private industry. This starts heavy industry moving, whereas leaf-raking CWA projects send no orders to the steel mills.

But the President was adamant. He claimed PWA—that is, heavy construction — was too slow. He wanted a lot of money spent immediately, wanted people taken off relief rolls, felt that the government directly should supervise the spending.

* * *

CABINET BATTLE

LATER the same argument was brought back to Washington. At that time it was a difference not between Ickes and Hopkins, but between the President and his chief advisers. Hopkins took no sides.

Marriner Eccles, governor of the federal reserve board, was hardest-hitting supporter of Ickes. He wanted to spend ten billions instead of four—but through private industry. Most of the inner circle favored the Ickes plan—except one man. He was Young Henry Morgenthau, secretary of the treasury.

"If I'm going to raise this money," Morgenthau insisted, "I want to have something to say about spending it."

He threw his weight with the President. Thus the job of reviving CWA, cloaked under the high-sounding title of Works-Relief, began.

* * *

HARD ON HARRY

ALL THIS was not definitely decided until the time congress appropriated the money. Criticism for this delay was heaped undeservedly on Hopkins' head, and he, smarting under the shower of vitriol, leaped at the job.

Harry made his plans through the simple process of long division. He had 3,500,000 unemployed to put to work, and he had $4,000,000,000 to spend. So he divided the first into the second and got $1,140, which he figured was the approximate amount of money he could pay each man per year.

But then the President chipped off a large chunk of money for Rex Tugwell's rural resettlement, and another chunk for rural electrification, which brought Hopkins's annual man-wage down to about $800.

Later $50,000,000 more came off for the youth administration, by which time poor Henry was wondering how he was going to get his 3,500,000 men back to work at all.

HOT

Originally Ickes was supposed to have a certain amount of the four billions—in fact he was to spend all amounts above $25,000. Imagine his delight, therefore, when he found friend Hopkins resorting to the cute trick of dividing the cost of his projects into multiples of $25,000. For instance, so many miles of road would be built in Colorado at $25,000 a mile, the total running into several hundred thousand.

Also, Roosevelt gave Hopkins the right to veto Ickes's projects. This he justified with the argument that Ickes's projects used more materials than men, and Hopkins was responsible for getting the men to work.

No consideration was given to the fact that the manufacture of materials also put men to work—though under private industry. This type of employment did not make imposing publicity figures for the administration.

So Hopkins began vetoing Ickes projects right and left. He turned down a PWA schoolhouse for Palermo, N. D., while neighboring areas were given a bird sanctuary and a golf links under his own WPA.

In Arkansas, Hopkins vetoed Ickes's PWA projects for sewage and waterworks for Hughes, Mt. View, Hartford, Bearden, Luxora and Dierks, instead gave them sewage systems under his own WPA. Thus the towns will have the pipes but no water to flush them.

All this was justified on the basis of using more men and less materials.

* * *

FRENZIED ACTIVITY

BUT NOW Hopkins went in for activity just for activity's sake. His men began combing each state looking for projects, bidding against Ickes's PWA. To do this he amassed a staff of 25,000, the most elephantine and top-heavy in the government.

And finally he began going in even for heavy projects, definitely of the PWA type, where material is more expensive than labor. Latest incursions in this field have been in Atlanta, Ga., and Washington, D. C., both in connection with sewer systems.

Atlanta has an enviable fiscal record, being third soundest in the United States. Washington, whose expenses are met in part by the federal government, also is in sound fiscal shape.

Ickes offered these two cities sewage systems under the usual PWA terms by which the city pays 55 per cent. Then Hopkins stepped in and offered Atlanta a $13,000,000 sewage system with only 21 per cent to be paid back to the government. To the District of Columbia he was willing to give $816,800 absolutely gratis.

Naturally both cities were pleased. But thousands of others, whose PWA projects got the Harry Hopkins veto, were not. Ickes's men had gone to great pains to let the country know just who had killed them.

Result: Newspapers throughout the country blazed with headlines reading:

"Hopkins Throws Out Veterans' Hospital," "Hopkins Turns Thumbs down on Municipal Power Plant," "Hopkins Vetoes County Court House."

One Man's Opinion

By Duncan Ellsworth Clark

EDITOR'S NOTE—Here is an informative, analytical daily feature on current topics. The opinions expressed in this column are not necessarily the same as those held by The Journal.

Should There Be a Successor to Huey Long?

MUCH loose talk, many flaring headlines, raucous radio ramblings anent the profound question as to who will be Huey Long's successor. Upon whom will his mantle fall? Who will fill his shoes? Who will carry on his dictating? Of course, the answer is that it won't be done. No other mortal could carry on as Huey carried on. No one person could perform his antics, display his political cunning, bellow so long and loud, make so many people hate him and so many others follow him as did this hillbilly meteor.

In three short years he rose from near obscurity to national prominence. As a public nuisance, as a bull in a china shop, as a horsefly on the flanks of the administration, as a conscienceless blatherer, as a political clown, as an agitator for silly cure-alls in stirring men's passions, he has had no equal and is not likely to have.

* * *

BUT beneath his clownishness was a native shrewdness, a self-sufficiency, an indomitable driving power, a super-salesmanship, unmeasured gall, and a flair for leadership that bord red on genius. He was P. T. Barnum, Big Bill Thompson, Jacob Coxey and Smedley Butler rolled into one. However much he was excused or condemned he was rapidly becoming an issue in American political life, how much so we shall never know.

Building up a dictatorship, big or little, always implies disaster when the strong hand relaxes its grip. There can be no orderly succession to such a rule. The people, weaned away from self-government and dazzled by a temporary security, plunge helplessly into chaos when the tyrant is gone. It has always been so. Nothing else can be expected.

* * *

WHO says Huey Long must have a successor? Who says that wrangling groups are grasping for his mantle? Who would even suggest that political power anywhere in America is something to be bartered for, bandied back and forth, a commodity to be snatched up and carried away in triumph? The very admission of such a thing is to assume that free government is gone and its recovery is hopeless. When we agree that public offices are the personal property of those whom the people have elected we are traitors to freedom's ways. When public servants have become our masters and we consent to such perversion of authority we deserve all the evils which are swiftly engulfing us.

* * *

THERE is no better intelligence or virtue or ability than that which resides in the people themselves. Placing our destinies in the hands of self-styled rulers is the dumbest sort of folly. Trusting that the president or congress or some political gymnast, or any wild-eyed magician will pull social well-being out of a hat is childish credulity, of the same calibre as belief in fairies, witch-craft and sorcery. We must do our own thinking and wrest from adverse conditions our own prosperity.

At the Pomona fair Saturday there appeared on the program one Irvin Cobb, avoirdupois 250—more or less, mostly more. Barbara Rowland, Santa Ana winner of the Salinas rodeo, appeared for equestrine performance. She was introduced by Governor Merriam, and responded. Then came the saga of Paducah, Ky., who said: "You think you have seen something, and you have indeed, when the queen of the rodeo appears on horseback, but you ought to see me. When I'm on horseback, whatever the horse does, I canter." My understanding is that the Pomona fair will continue the rest of the week in spite of what Cobb said.

For a number of years it has been a custom of certain Santa Ana citizens to defy Mount Lassen, and invade those sacred volcanic precincts. I do not know whether the invasion is a temptation, or for the purpose of worship, but to go that far just to commune with nature is asking entirely too much of my credulity. There must be more than a cabin in that neighborhood.

Now that school is in session again I would like to ask for more careful driving on the part of all automobile drivers, if it would do any good. All previous publicity cautions seem to have resulted in increased accidents, so maybe the less said the safer it will be for the school kiddies.

What's this? The young Democrats of Orange county observing constitution day, and the Republican young men of Orange county doing a Rip Van Winkle. There's something cockeyed about this. Our Democratic party affiliants have been accused of trying to scrap the constitution, and now appear unexpectedly in defense of that patriotic and independent document. Call for Howard Irwin, and all members of the Republican county central committee. Of course, it's too late but it's safe to send out the call anyway. They probably won't hear it. Why, it would take a flock of Paul Revere's to arouse the committee from political slumberland.

Now it happened this way: Doctor enters cafe for the morning ham and eggs. Being in a somewhat voluble mood he ventures the information to the cafe proprietor that he just sent a generous bunch of flowers to, his wife, and also a bottle of perfume. The cafe man wanted to know the reason for such a financial outbrust. "Doc" says it's his wedding anniversary. And the cafe owner's face illuminated like a burst from the Hope diamond. "What day of the month is this?" he inquired. "The fifteenth," came the reply. "Why, that's my wedding anniversary, too." And the telephone was busy, and flowers and perfume ordered. By that time the wife of the cafe man had occasion to bring little son to Sunday school and stopped at the cafe. Papa rushes out to smack her on the lips, and she wants to know the cause for the demonstration. "Why, don't you know what day this is?" inquires father. And when he ventures the information that it is their wedding anniversary date he gets the reply: "Say, are you crazy? it's the fifteenth of next month!" Order for flowers and perfume canceled.
